Angus's Delect views in Great Britain

Tttarpara Joykeishna Public Library

Govt. of West Bengal

OF THE TOS IN GREAT. BRIT, 11. N. and WALES In a Collection of v 2 9 Engraved by W. Anguis OVO From PICTURES (and DRAWINGS by the most

C'O NȚENT'S.

Pl. Engraved Title.	Pl.
1 BROADLANDS, Hampshire Lord Palmerston.	33 NETTLECOMBE-COURT, Somersetshire, Sir John Trevelyan, Bart.
2 BROCKET-HALL, Hertfordshire Lord Melhourne.	34 CHALFONT-HOUSE, Buckinghamshire Thomas Hibbert, Esq.
3 CASTLE-HOWARD, Io kshire Earl of Garlisle.	35 BRADWELL-LODGE, Essex Rev. Henry Bate Dudley.
4 COMB-BANK, Kent Lord Frederick Campbell.	36 LACY-HOUSE, Middlescx Richard Brindsley Sheridan, Esq.
5 BLLMHEIM, Oxfordshire Duke of Marlborough.	37 LUMLEY-CASTLE, Durham Earl of Scarborough.
6 BekBringe, Surcy Sir Robert Barker, Bart.	38 NEWNHAM-COURT, Sefordshire Earl Harcourt.
7 Dedmaster, Shropshire William Whitmore, Esq.	39 Belton-House, LincolnshiveLord Brownlow.
S FLIXTON-HALL, Suffolk Alexander Adair, Esq.	40 TWICKENHAM-PARK-HOUSE, Middlesex, Lord Fred. Cavendish.
9 DALKEITH PALACE, Mid-Lothian Duke of Buccleugh.	41 CIRENCESTER-HOUSE, Gloucestershire Earl Bathurst.
10 Long Ford, Willshire; Earl of Radnor.	42 DEANERY, Somersetshire Rev. Lord Francis Seymour.
II COGHILL-HALL, Yorkshire Sir John Coghill, Bart.	43 Lee, Kent Thomas Barrett, Esq.
12 ARMSTON, Herefordshire Francis Woodhouse, Esq.	44 North-Court-House, Isle of Wight Richard Bull, Esq.
13 MILTON, Northamptonshire Earl Fitzwilliam.	45 LAMBETH-PALACE, Sury Archbishop of Canterbury.
11 Oxenford-Castle, Edinburgshire Sir John Dalrymple.	46 GUNNERSBURY-House, Middlesg.r Walter Stirling, Esq.
15 LALEWENY-HALL, Denbighshire Hon. Thomas Fitzmaurice.	47 BRADBOURN, Kent Sir John Papillon Twisden, Bart.
16 Cusworth, Yorkshire William Wrightson, Esq.	48 DUFFRYN-ALLED, Denbighshire Philip York, Esq.
17 HOLLAND-HOUSE, Middleser Lord Holland.	49 Basildon-House, Berks Sir Francis Sykes, Bart.
18 BROOME, Kent Sir Henry Oxenden, Bart.	50 FONTHILL-HOUSE, Wills William Beckford, Esq.
19 Moccas Court, Herefordshire Sir George Cornewall, Bart.	51 PELLING-PLACE, Berks James Bonnell, Esq.
20 Tong-Castle, Shripshire Benjamin Channock Payne, Esq.	52 ATTINGHAM, Shropshire Lord Berwick.
21 SALT. M. Devonslive Lord Boringdon.	53 WANSTEAD-HOUSE, Essex Sir James Tylney Long, Bart.
27 BROUGH HALL, Forkshire Sir John Lawson, Bart.	51 BLICKLING, Norfolk The Hon. Wm. Ashetou Harbord.
23 LARTING SON, Werkshire Henry Maire, Esq.	55 MERTON-PLACE, Surry Admiral Lord Nelson.
24 CLINTS, Syrkeling Stapleton, Esq.	56 SUNDRIDGE-PARK, Kent Claude Scott, Esq.
25 RABY-CARTLE, Jurham Earl of Carlisle.	57 KINGSGATE, Isle of Thanet John Roberts, Esq.
26 Sheuffeld Pl. E. Sussex Lord Sheffield.	58 Addrescombe-Place, Surry Earl of Liverpool.
27 BARSKIMMING Shire Sir William Millar Wirt.	59 Word overt, Worcestershire Lord Foley.
28 HARE-HALL, I'ss A County Visit Wallow	60 West-Hill, Surry D. H. Rucker, Esq.
28 HARE-HALL, I'ss Vissid Waller 29 Meleviller Castle of the light Hon, Henry Dundas.	61 Sron-Kovsv, Middlesex Duke of Northumberland.
OA Dinner Harris Inverse Inverse the EAR ACTO ACT TOTAL	62 GMILLINGHAM-CASTLE, Northumberland. Earl of Tankerville.
Sh Theoralds, Hate Gorge Prescott, Esq.	63 Burley, Rutlandshire Earl Winchelsea.
93 Chann Hause A 162 f

Broadlands in Hampflitte, the Seat of Lord Pelmersign .

B R O A D L A N D S,

In HAMPSHIRE.

The Seat of the Right Henourable Lord Viscount PALMERSTON.

(From a Drawing by the Right Honourable Lord Viscount DUNCANNON.)

THIS beautiful Seat is situated on the River Test, a very fine, clear, and copious Stream, near Runsey, in Hampshire, which is remarkable for its conventual Church, one of the most venerable Saxon Buildings in this Kingdom, about seventy-five miles S. W. of London. The House has been considerably improved by the present noble Possessor; and contains a valuable Collection of Pictures, with an elegant Front towards the River, decorated with a Portico of the Ionic Order, in a western Direction.

The Gardens and Pleasure Grounds are laid out and planted in a neat and elegant modern Taste, with a Slope to the River, which has a pleasing Effect, that adds considerably to the View. The Enclosures that surround the Mansion are extensive, and from many Spots exhibit a most beautiful, grotesque, and copious Prospect of the adjacent Country.

Brocket Hall in Hattiondehire, the Sent of Ford Wells as mes .

BROCKET HALL,

In HERTFORDSHIRE,

The Seat of the Right Honouvable Lord Viscount MELBOURNE,

(Drawn by P. SANDBY, Esquire, R. A.)

THIS elegant and magnificent Seat of Lord Melbourne's, stands in a most delightful and extensive Park, in the Hundred of Broadwater, in Hertfordshire, situated four Miles N. of Hatfield, two Miles S. of Welwyn, six Miles W. of Hertford, and about twenty-two Miles N. W. from London. The Park and ancient Edifice, which formerly belonged to the Brockets, came into the Family of the present noble Possessor by Purchase, and descended to his Lordship on the Death of his Father, the fate Sir Matthew Lamb, Baronet, who began the present modern Structure, which was finished by his Lordship about twelve Years since, by whom very considerable Improvements have been made in the Park and adjacent Grounds, which are some of the most picturesque and beautiful in the Kingdom. Mr. Paque was the Architect; and the beautiful Bridge over a spacious Sheet of Water (a Branch from the River Lea) which enriches the enchanting and extensive Scenery, was executed by the same ingenious Artist. The Water and Out-grounds were laid out and disposed by Mr. Wood, of Esser, in the most luxuriant and masterly Manner. The Offices are under Ground, and were built after the Body of the Building was creeted, by under-propping the Edifice. The principal Stair-case is superb, and much admired for the curious Manner of its Construction, having Communication with every Part of the Building. The grand Drawing Room is finished in a superior Style, at the End of which is an elegant Painting of the Prince of Wales, leaning against a Horse, by Sir Joshua Reynolds, viewed with so much eclat at the Royal Academy, Somerset Place, a few Years since. The Ceiling was designed and painted by Mortimer and Wheatley, as we are informed, at the Expence of fifteen hundred Pounds. The different Apartments contain many excellent Paintings by some of the first Masters; among which is a large magnificent Picture by Temers. The whole, both internally and externally, is completed in a Style truly elegant, and highly to the Honom of his Lordship's superior Taste and Munificence.

The Oak on the Left Hand in the View was a favourite Tree Queen Elizabeth often resorted to, having the Liberty of ranging from the Place of her Confinement at Hatfield to this Spot. She was seated under this Tree, when the fortunate Event of the Death of her Sister, Queen Mary, was conveyed to her.

The Chinese Boat on the Piece of Water was originally the Property of Sir Benjamin Trueman, the Building of which cost three hundred Pounds. Hatfield is seen in the Distance; a little to the Right of which are the Lodges seen, which are at D.c Entrance into the Park of Brocket.

	• •-	•	\ .

Caffle Howard in Yorkshire the Seat of the Earl of Carlifle.

Poblished on the Set director Both 1, 18 44 H Angua Well age or Buildings tolington

C A S T L E H O W A R D, In YORKSHIRE,

The Seat of the Right Honourable the Earl of CARLISLE.

(From a Painting by MARLOW.)

THIS beautiful, extensive, and elegant Structure was finished on a Plan of Sir John Vanbrugh's, and is justly esteemed one of the first Pouses in England. It is situated in the Wood of Hindershell, in the Wapentake of Bulmer, in the North Riding of the Country, twelve Miles N.E. from the City of York, between New Malton and Easingwold, on a Branch of the River Darwent. It was built by the Grandfather of the present Earl on the Spot of Ground where the old Castle stood, to which is added an elegant Range of Buildings appropriated for Stables.

The different Fronts are regular; the principal one having an extremely grand Portico leading to a superb Hall, thirty feet square, and sixty high, whose Dome is supported by Corinthian Columns of Marble; the Ceiling is of Stucco, and the Walls painted and adorned with Busts and Statues. The Saloon is thirty-four feet by twent-four, containing many capital Paintings by the first Masters, purchased at a great Expense. The Dining Parlour is twenty-eight feet long by twenty-one broad. All the Frames of the Windows are gns. The Dawing Room is equally curious; and near it are the Dressing Rooms, finished with every Embellishment that can be imagined. The Gallery is very elegant, and adorned with Busts and curious Paintings. This beautiful Structure, from the Extent of its Domain, the Size of its Woods and Pleasure Grounds, the Judgement with which they have been planted, and the magnificent Buildings and Statues with which the whole are embellished, forms one of the most extensive and variegated inland Scenes to be met with. The Garden of this stately Mausion is laid out with the greatest Taste, to which the present View faces; and the Park, which is large, commands a most charming and extensive Prospect.

In one Part of this Park is a circular Building of the Tuscan Order, where the Remains of this noble Family are deposited, and over it is a most elegant Chapel. Indeed this stately Structure, with its Embellishments, is suitable to the Dignity of the greatest British Peer, and must convey to Strangers a high opinion of the Riches of our Nobility.

Comb Bank in hent, the Seat of Lord Fred Campbell.

Belleted with the directo delle set by S Sugar Softe some Buildings Schagen

COMB. BANK,

In KENT.

The Seat of the Right Honourable Lord FREDERICK CAMPBELL.

, .(Drawn by F. IVHEATLEY.)

THIS beautiful Scat has its Appellation from an ancient Camp in its Vicinity, near which many ancient Urns have been dug up, supposed to have been deposited there by the Romans.

It was, some Centuries past, the Property of the Isleys, from whom it was, in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, conveyed to the Ancestor of William Ash, Esquire, by whom it was alienated to Colonel Campbell, who, on the Death of Archibald, Duke of Argyll, in 1761, succeeded to that Title; and his eldest Son, the present Duke, during the Life-time of his Father, was, on December 20, 1766, created an English Peer, by the Title of Baron Sundridge, of Comb Bank, in the County of Kent. Archibald, the late Duke, during his Life-time, gave Comb Bank to his third Son, Frederick, the present Possessor.

This noble Structure is situated about twenty Miles S. E. from London, near the Village of Sundridge, and a few Miles from Sevenoaks. It is watered by a Branch from the River Derwent, which adds greatly to its Beauty.

The Mansion, though not large, is remarkably neat; and the Gardens and Pleasure Grounds are laid out with a Degree of Elegance that does Honour to the Taste of the present noble Possessor, being ornamented with a Number of Vases, &c. in a superior Style. Its delightful Situation and extensive Prospects, added to very considerable Improvements, augment not a little its natural Beauties, and cender it a most delightful Villa, worthy its Inhabitant.

BLENHE.IM HOUSE,

In OXFORDSHIRE,

The Seat of his Grace the Duke of MARLBOROUGH.

(From a Drawing by the Right Honourable Lord Viscount DUNCANNON.)

THIS magnificent Structure is fituated a little West of Woodstock, and about seven Miles and a Half North West of Oxford. Its Front extends 348 Feet from Wing to Wing, and confists of a Variety of beautiful and noble Architecture, 'designed by Sir John Vanbrugh. The present View is taken obliquely, not far from the Bridge, which is noble, confisting of three Arches, (the Centre one of which is larger than the Rialto at Venice) where the Water forms a spacious Lake, surrounded by an artificial Declivity of a prodigious Depth, and is indisputably the most capital Piece of Water in the Kingdom. The Park is eleven Miles in Circumserence, originally enclosed by Henry the First. The greater Part of the old Wall is now standing, which enclosed a royal Palace. Henry the Second made it his principal Residence; and erected a House in a Labyrinth for the Habitation of his savourite Rosamond, on the Hill to the North West of the Bridge, near a remarkable Spring, that at present retains her Name The Palace was inhabited by our Kings till the Reign of Charles the First, when it began to be demolished; but a Part of its Ruins were lately visible to the North of the Bridge, on the Spot where two Sycamores have been since planted as a Memorial. The Park and Manor of Woodstock, &c. were granted by Parliament, in 1705, to the victorious John Duke of Maxiborough, and his Heirs; which is annually acknowledged by presenting a small Banner at Windsor; which Grant, and the Services of the Duke, are specified on the Pedestal of a stately Column 130 Feet high, situated on the grand Avenue of the Park, on the Top-of which is a Statue of the Duke.

The House itself was built at the public Expence; but the Bridge, the Column, and the Portal leading to the Town, were erected by Sarah, Dutchess of Marlborough. On the Pediment of the South Front, towards the Garden, is a noble Busto, larger than Life, of Louis the Fourteenth, taken from the Gate of Tournay. In the Centre of the Front, a superb Portico, elevated on massy Columns, admits Entrance into the Hall, which magnificent Room runs to the Height of the House, and is of a proportionable Breadth, supported by Corinthian Pillars. The Ceiling is painted by Sir James Thornhill, and the Walls are covered with a most capital Collection of valuable Pictures, &c. as are the noble and most magnificent Suite of Rooms; to enter into the Particulars of which would far exceed our Limits, and its elegant Furniture exceed our Abilities. The Tapestry which embellishes the Apartments is chiefly on the Subject of the Duke's numerous Victories. The Library is a most superb Room, 183 Feet long; exclusive of the Book-Cases, 32 wide in the Middle, 29 at the Ends. The Doric Pilasters and Columns, the Entablature, the stuccoed Compartments of the vaulted Ceiling, the Window Frames, &c. are in the highest Taste both of Design and Finishing; but to add to the whole, the late Duke furnished it with 24,000 Volumes, valued at £30,000, the best private Collection in England. In the Chapel is a superb Monument to the Memory of the first Duke and Dutchess, by Rybrack. The China Room will afford a Fund of Entertainment to the Curious.

The Gardens are spacious, and include a great Variety of Ground, which have been considerably and richly embellished by the present Duke with excellent Pieces of Sculpture. On the whole, it is replete with Beauties, and is a Monument of British Gratitude for the Services of a fortunate and brave General, who curbed the aspiring Thoughts of the presumptuous Louis the Fourteenth in his Attempt to enslave Europe.

- " Imperial Blenheim ! in whose ample Round
- " United Strength and Majesty are found;
- " Vast in Design, with every Beauty grac'd,
- "That strikes the Sense, and charms the Eye of Taste;
- " At once the Monument of Arms and Arts,
- " The Hero's Meed, the Pledge of British Hearts;
- "Till Time's remotest Stage defign'd to prove
- " A Churchill's Valour, and a Nation's Love."

Bushridge in Surry, the Seat of Sir Robert Barker,

I Partiched on the Het direct Hug and by Ho frame & Softwynner Saidling of Stragan

B U S B R I D G E,

The Seat of General Sir ROBERT BARKER, Baronet.

(From a Drawing by Mr. BEILBY, of BATTERSEA.)

THIS elegant Structure is fituated about a Mile from the Market-Town of Godalmin, in the County of Surry, and thirty-four Miles from the Metropolis, in a beautiful and well-cultivated Country. The Manor of Bufbridge and Hambleton was, in the Beginning of this Century, in the Possession of Sir William Elliott, who resided in it, and disposed of it to — Waller, Esquire, by whom it was resold to Philip Carteret Webb, Esquire, who very considerably improved the Gardens and Grounds. After his Death, his Widow, by Marriage, conveyed it to Edward Beaver, Esquire, of whom it was purchased by the present Possession, and in 1775 was considerably improved under the Direction of Mr. Crunden.

The principal Rooms are, the Drawing-Room, 29 Feet by 25; the Entiry-Parlour, 35 Feet by 20; the Museum, 28 Feet by 22, and 26 Feet in Height. The Apartments are embellished with some excellent Pictures, particularly that of the Mother and her Seven Sons, who were put to Death by King Antiochus Epiphanes, for refusing to cat Swine's-Flesh; as mentioned in the seventh Chapter of the second Book of Maccaltes, thirtieth Verse: The Visier Sujah ul Dowla, and his Family, meeting a General Officer at the Entrance of his Palace: The Mogul Emperor of Hindostan seeing the English Forces reviewed at Allahabad. In this Fiece all the Portraits are drawn from the Life, and painted by the late Mr. Tilley Kettle.

Its remarkable Confervatory, or Green-House, was built by Mr. Webb about forty Years ago, who availed himself of a high fandy Rock facing the South, which forms the back Part, and the Trees grow in the natural Ground. The Building is the first of the Kind in the Kingdom, 171 Feet in Length; and what must give it a decided Superiority, is, the Age of the Exotics, being the finest and largest in England. It now contains a Curiosity which, perhaps, is singular at present in this Island, the Palma Dactifera, or Date-Tree, now in Fruit.

Dudmaster in Shrepphire, the Scat of William Whitmore Ejg"

But of the land on the Old Secretar Land good for Westman & State and But to a Little in

D U · D M A S T E R,

In SHROPSHIRE.

The Seat of WILLIAM WHITMORE, Esquire.

(From a Drawing by CLAUDE NATTES.)

THIS pleasant Villa is situated on the Banks of the River Severn, three Miles South of Bridgenorth, and 139 Miles North West from London, between the Villages of Quatford and Quat, and surrounded with a most fertile Soil.

The House was built about One Hundred Years ago, and is situated upon a rising Ground, commanding a View of a sine Pool and the upper Town of Bridgenorth, with the Ruins of the leaning Tower upon the Castle-Hill. It has a pretty Valley, well wooded, adjoining to it, at the Bettom of which runs a small Rivulet over a rocky Ground, forming some natural Cascades; near it is a remarkable Spring, which rises on the Side of a Rock, and falls into a Bason formed to receive it. Several Walks are cut through the Valley, which terminate in a beautiful Prospect of the River Severa and the adjacent Country, to a great Extent. On the East of it are the Remains of Morf Forest, which abounds with Game.

Eliston Hall in Suffelk the Sent of Alexander Adai: Eff.

FLIXTON HALL,

In SUFFOLK,

The Seat of ALEXANDER ADAIR, Esquire.

(Drawn by T. SANDBY, Equire, Professor of Architecture to the Royal Academy.)

THIS noble Structure is pleasantly situated on the River Waveney, between the Market-Towns of Harleston and Bungay, from which latter Place the River is navigable to Yarmouth, where it discharges itself into the North Sea, having divided the Counties of Norfolk and Suffolk son a great Extent of Country. It is 105 Miles from London, in a delightful Neighbourhood.

This venerable Mansion was distinct about the Year 1615, and continued to be the Residence of the ancient Family of Tashorough, from the Time of its Erection to the Middle of the present Century, when it was purchased by the late Mr. Adair. The Style of the Architecture is what has been called Inigo Jones's Gothic, blending the Sateliness of more remote Times with the Mode of Building in Italy, then the prevailing Taste. The principal Front is to the North. The Hall and Staircase are grand, the Apartments large and spacious. To the South was an open Portico and Colonnade, now closed up, and converted into separate Rooms.

The Grounds in Front have been ornamented with extensive Plantations, which, united with the fine Woods of the Park, present to the Eye an Appearance of Grandeur and Magnissicence; which, with the View of the River, has a most beautiful Effect.

The Terrace shewn in the View of this Mansion has been levelled, and the Moat silled up, since the present Drawing was

The Drawing is in the Poffession of Alexander Adair, Esquire.

Datkeith Palace in Scotland, the Seat of the Duke of Buccleugh

Paralle man to the State of the

DALKEITH PALACE,

In MID LOTHIAN, SCOTLAND,

The Seat of his Grave the Duke of BUCCLEUGH.

• (From a Drawing by J. BARRET.)

THIS extensive Structure, the largest in Scotland, except Hopeton House, is the best Palace belonging to the Scottish Nobility; stands on a rising Ground in the Center of an extensive Park, which, with the Prospect over the River, makes the whole extremely delightful. It was built soon after the Repolution on the Ruins of an ancient Castle, formerly the Property of the Earls of Morton, by the Duchess of Monmouth, Relict of the unfortunate Duke of that Title, who was beheaded on Tower Hill, 1682. The House is large, but not elegant in its exterior appearance, otherwise a Front View would have been given, the Architect having heart destitute of all that knowledge of his Art, necessary to form a true judgment of what is really beautiful, without a profusion of unnecessary decorations. The Inside is furnished in the most sumptuous manner that possibly can be imagined, particularly one Room, which contains a vast number of valuable Curiosities, presented to the Duke of Monmouth, by his Father Charles II. when the Duke married the Heiress of Dalkeith. The Paintings in the Apartments are the married than any other House in Scotland, particularly of the royal Offspring and Connexions.

The River North Esk runs near 'c; but the Park Walls rather obscure the House till you get some distance from it. The Park is very large, and beau'sfied with Waterworks. The Model of the House is said to have been taken from that of the late King William, at Lat. in Guelderland, only this is of Stone, and that of Brick. The Front is adorned with Columns of the Corinthian Order, and a double Wing, like in of Winchester Palace. There is a spacious Court between the Palace and the Park. The Grand staircase of the House is supported by Pillars of Marble, and every Step curiously inlaid. The Offices of the Palace join to the Town, which his Grace has embellished with a spacious Hall for a School Room, 47 Feet long, 25 broad, and 15 high; begun in May, 1760, worthy its beneficent Founder.

Sometord in Waltiners the Scat of the Each of Badner.

LONGFORD CASTLE,

In WILTSHIRE.

The Seat of the Right Honourable the Earl of RADNOR.

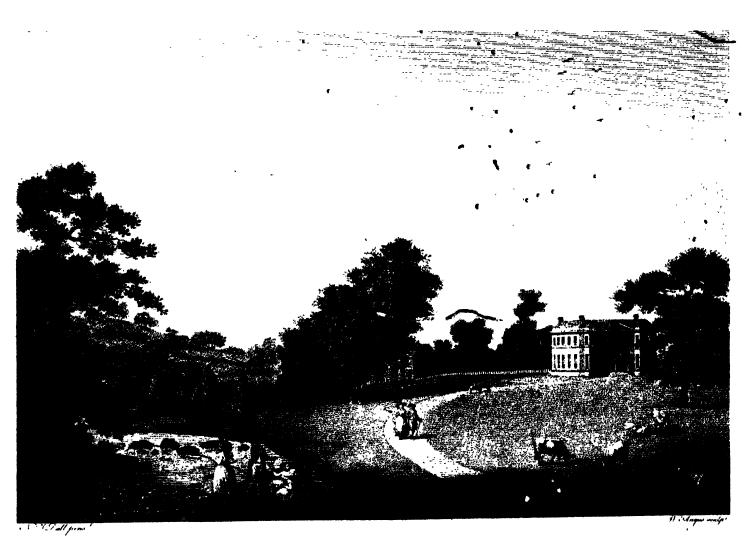

(From a Drawing by CLAUDE NATTES.)

THIS august Structure, of which we present an oblique View of the South Front, is situated on the Banks of the River Acon, between the City of Salisbury and the Town of Downton, near the S. E. Corner of the County, in the Middle of a Valley, well covered with Wood; a Circumstance favorable in a County whose southern Parts are generally open. The Building is of a triangular Form, with circular Towers at the external Angles, which contain several of the principal Apartments, and at the internal Angles are circular Staircases. The original Building was erected in 1591, by Sir Thomas Gorges and his Lady, the Marchiness Downgor of Northampton. The Towers have undergone no material Alterations, but the intermediate Spaces retain but little of their original Appearance; and the Inside has been entirely modernized. The Rooms, though not large, are pleasant, cheerful, and elegantly decorated in the modern Tasta, and though richly furnished, yet are not gaudy.

The different Apartments contain a good Collection of Paintings, by the most eminent Masters, particularly two by Claude de Lorraine, allegorical; one representing the Rise, and the other the Decline of the Roman Empire; esteemed two of the best Pieces now in the Kingdom, of that Master. Among many Pieces of useful and ornamental Furniture, is a remarkable curious Iron Chair, lately added by the present noble Proprietor, the Embellishments to which are esteemed both capital and curious, representing the Roman History, in Compartments of small Figures; and is classed with the choicest Pieces of Antiquity. The Pictures, and fitting up the Gallery, cost 10,000l. The triangular Form of the House is so singular, that we are informed there is but one more of the same Plan in England; and which was built by the same Person, at six Miles Distance.

The Park, towards the West, has some Elevation, interspersed with considerable Plantations, on the right of which, the Spire of Salisbury Cathedral, three Miles distant, presents itself in View: as does on the East, the picturesque Village of Alderbury, from the Meadows of which this View was taken, in 1787.

The Drawing is in the Possession of his Lordship.

Coghill Hall in Yorkshire the Seat of Sir John Coghill.

COCHILL HALLS

In YORKSHIRE,

The Seat of Sir JOHN COGHILL Baronet.

(From a Painting by N. T. DALL.)

THIS elegant Seat is situated in one of the pleasantest Spots in England; 200 Miles from London. three Miles North from Harrowgate, within View of the Town and Castle of Knaresporough, and seventeen Miles North of Leeds; with the River Nid running on the Guth Side of the Pleasure Grounds and House, whose Front is eastward. The present Edifice was built on the Site of an old Mansion of the same Name, by Oliver Coghill, Esq. about thirty Years ago. The Obstructions in the River Nid form beautiful Water Miles, near which is a Hermitage cut out of the Rocks, with Woods rising on each side over the River. A Terrace planted with Shrubs, is continued to a great Height upon the Rocks, which gives a pleasing Appearance to the romantic View Nature affords, and is continued to the adjoining Lands.

In its Vicinity is a remarkable Dropping Well, belonging to Sir Thomas Slingsby, Baronet.

The Picture is in the Possession of Mrs. Coghill, Relict of Oliver Coghill, Esquire.

Armfton in Hereford flure the Seat of Francis Woodhoule Lig'

A. R. M. S. T. O. N.

In HEREFORDSHIRE,

The Seat of FRANCIS WOODHOUSE, Esquire.

*(From a Painting by J. HANDY.)

TIMS well-built House is situated about one hundred and forty Miles from London, twelve Miles from Monmouth, seven Miles from the City of Hereford, and nine from the Town of Ross, in a rich and fertile Country; the hanging Woods, the variety of swelling Ground, and the contiguity of the meandering River Wye, render it a pleasant situation. Among other Improvements, an extensive ride has lately been made through the Woods, and upon the Banks of the River, commanding such Views as are worth seeing; nor can we omit mentioning the many delightful prospects, which deserve the particular attention of the traveller, in the neighbourhood, near the Seats of Sir Hungerford Hoskins, Edward Folcy, Esq. James Walwyn, Esq. (the Member for the City of Hereford.)

It is somewhat singular that the ingenious Mr. Gilpin, who has lately obliged the public with a Description of the Beauties of the Wye, (which discharges itself into the Bristol Channel at Chepstow, in Monmouthshire) should pass over this spot in silence; as well as the celebrated Landscape from Capley Hill, a little distance from it; the magnificent Mansion of the Duke of Norfolk; and the fine Villas of Sir George Cornwall, (the Member for the County of Hereford;) Mrs. Philips, and William Parry, Esq.; all of which embellish the Banks of this navigable River, and are entitled to much admiration.

The Picture is in the possession of Mr. J. Handy, landscape painter.

Million in Northampton thire, the Soat of Earl Vitzwilliam.

M I L T O N,

In NORTHAMPTONSHIRE,

The Seat of the Right Honourable Earl FITZWILLIAM.

(From a Drawing by the Right Hon. Lord Viscount DUNCANNON.)

THIS venerable Edifice is situated about 3 Miles from Peterborough, and 82 from London; is very large, and extends far behind the Trees. The Back Front and internal Parts of the House are of modern Construction, and the Apartments are large and elegantly fitted up. It is situated in an extensive Park, commanding fine Prospects, and is well wooded. Among the Plantations are some very fine Oaks.

Disgrace, in 1530, he having received Favours from the Cardinal during his Prosperity; which Henry VIII. so far from resenting, not only commended Sir William for his Gratitude, but promoted him for it.

Oxenford in victimal the cost of Sir John Dalrympte.

OXENFORD, CASTLE,

In EDINBURGHSHIRE, SCOTLAND,

The Seat of Sir JOHN DALRYMPLE, Baronet

(From a Drawing by ROBERT ADAM, Esq.)

THIS Structure is situated about half a Mile from the most read between Blackshields and Edinburgh, and 3 Miles from the Frith of Forth, on a rising ground, communiting an extensive prospect, enriched with the Ruine of Crighton and Borthwick Castles.

The House received its improved appearance about 5 years ago, by its present possessor; and is 100 feet in length, by 50 broad. It was the ancient Seat of the Family of Macgills, Viscounts of Oxenford, which title became extinct in 1755, from whom it descended to the Representative of the Family, the Lady to the present Sir John Dalrymple, Bart.

The Rooms of the ancient Building were large, but the House awkward and ununiform; but Mr. Robert Adam, Architect, has preserved the old Apartments, and by his inventive power removed all the deformities, and substituted in their stead, heaties similar to those he introduced at Sion House, in Middlesex. The grounds round it have great variety, but have not et undergone all possible improvements. This building was honoured with the residence of the Duke of York and Princess Anne, when they visited Scotland; in memory of which some of the old furniture used by them is still preserved.

There are several Pictures yet preserved of the Oxenford family, done by the celebrated Jameson, an eminent British artist; and many of the State, Haddington, and Fletcher of Solton, Families; among which latter is Mr. Fletcher, who was one of the seven Commoners that protested against delivering up Charles 1. to the English Army.

Lleweny Hall in Denbiglighire, the Seat of the Hon Me Thomas Fitsmaurice.

LLEWENY HALL,

'In DENBIGHSHIRE,

The Seat of the Honotrable THOMAS FITZMAURICE.

... (From a Drawing by Mr. J. BIRD, of LIVERPOOL.)

THIS Building is situated in the pleasant and fertile Vale of Clayit, 36 Miles from Chester, 2 Miles from Denbugh, and 211 Miles from London. The House is very extensive, having been built at distant Periods; and though not uniform, is magnificent and august. The Gothic Hall, which for its venerable Appearance is perhaps unequalted in the Kingdom, is one of the most ancient Parts of the present Structure, is 60 feet long, 30 broad, and 25 to the Springing of the Roof, which is ornamented with Carvings peculiar to the Time of its Construction, as are the Wainscotings of the Walls, which are embellished with some afficient Pieces of Armour, dispersed in various Forms. The Right Wing of the Building contains a spacious Drawing Room, &c. of modern Construction; the Left an extensive Gallery of 110 feet long, by 12 broad, a Library, India Room, and a handsome Range of Bed Chambers: to which some additional Offices have been lately built at the Back of the House,

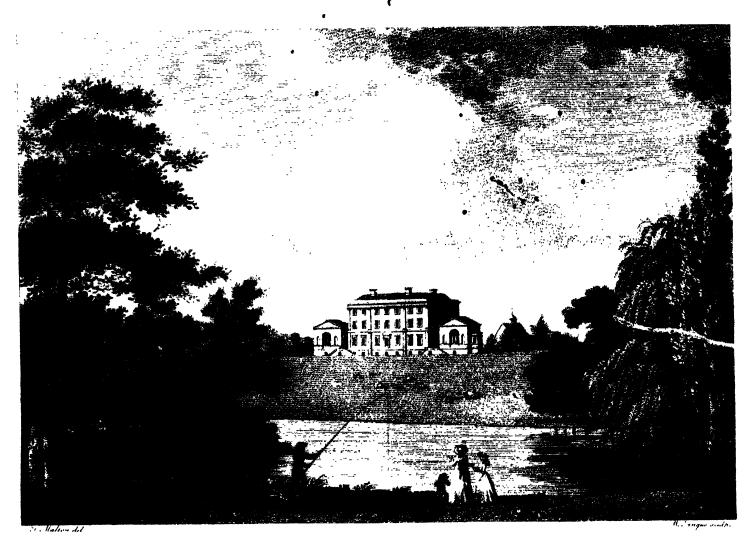

The Views round the House are numerous and extremely picturesque, and the Ruins of Denbigh Castle form no mean Object; which with the environing Hills, chequered with Inclosures nearly to their Summits, add greatly to the natural beauties of the Vale. Agreeably contrasted with these, at the distance of Half a Mile, appears the Bleach-Work lately erected from a Design of that ingenious Artist, Mr. Thomas Sandby, Architect, which for Elegance and Utility, very happily blended, exceeds every other Building of the Kind in Europe. The River Clayd, which runs near the House, has likewise of late been much improved; and, in short, the whole of the adjacent Country wears an animated Appearance from the active Spirit of the present noble Possessor.

Òn

On this Spot, in 1720, resided the Chief of one of the fifteen Tribes or Nobility of North Wales; and the House, till purchased by the present Possessor, was the Seat of Sir Salusbury Cotton, who came possessed of it by an Ancestor having married the Heiress of the Family of Salusbury, who were settled here before the Reign of Henry III. Many of which Family Portraits are yet preserved in the magnificant old Hall; among others is one of the celebrated Catharine Tudor, or Catharine of Berain, who, on the Death of her first Husbaud, John Salusbury, was led to the Church at his Funeral by Sir Richard Clough, and from the Church by Morris Wynne of Gwedir, who expressed his Wish to her of being her second, which she declined with great Politeness, informing him that she had just accepted the Proposals of Sir Richard, in her Way to the Church; but assured him, (and was as good as her Word), that in case she performed the same said Duty, now performing, for the Knight, he might depend on being her third, which she accordingly accomplished. Her fourth Husband she married with was Edward Thelwal, Esq. of Plas y Ward; she died August 27, 1591.

About a Mile and a Half West from the House is Whitchurch, or St. Mercellas, the Parish Church of Denbigh, wherein is the Monument of the Father of Sir Hugh Middleton, who expended his Fortune in bringing the New River to supply London with Water; to whom he was the sixth Son.

Near this Place was to be seen, a few Years since, the remains of the Palace of Mues Mynan, where Licuciyn ap Gryffydd, last Prince of Wales, resided.

Cusworth in Yorkephire, the Seat of William Wrightson Egg'

CUSWORTH,

In YORKSHIRE,

The Seat of WILLAM WRIGHTSON, Esquire.

(From a Drawing by THOMAS MALTON, Jun.)

THIS agreeable Edifice stands on an Eminence in the centre of a Park, skirted with remarkably beautiful Woods, the Plantations in the Park contain a great Variety of different kinds of I irs, esteemed in as high a state emineration as any in the kingdom. The House was built under the direction of William Wrightson, Esq. the Grandfather of the present possessor, in 1740; the Wings were added afterwards by Mr. Paine, architect. The whole is built of a fine white stone, and is situated about half a mile on the East side of the great North Road, towards Ferrybridge, and is 162 Miles from London. It commands most pleasing and extensive Views of the Country around, among which Doncaster, 2 Miles distant, forms an interesting appearance, being esteemed one of the most picturesque Towns in the Country. From the upper part of the House you are presented with a number of Gentlemen's Seats, which beautify a fine sporting Country, you likewise command a View of both York and Lincoln Minsters, though each 40 miles distant.

The Water, which embellishes the Grounds, is so contrived as to have the appearance of a communication with the river Don, though half a Mile distant. The Gardens are laid out in the present taste, and are in high Preservation.

The south Front exhibited in the Plate contains on the Ground Floor, a Chapel, Drawing Room, Saloon, Library, and Eating Room.

Holland Boufe in Middleses the Seat of Lord Holland .

is to have a set that town dept or jung by H. Inger . by Gorymore Buchbungs Libragian .

HOLLAND HOUSE,

In MIDDLESEX.

The Seat of the Right Honourable Lord HOLLAND,

(From a Drawing by G. SAMUEL.)

THIS truly venerable Editice is situated at a small Distance, on the North Side of the Road between Kensington and Hammersmith; and was originally built by Sir Anthony Cope, Knt. in the Reign of James I. to whom he was Master of the Courts of Wards, and one of the Chamberlains of the Exchequer, but dying without Male Issue, his Daughter Isabel, by her Marriage with Henry Rich, Earl of Holland, conveyed this House (which her Father had kept with great Hospitality in the old English Taste) to the noble Family of Rich, who greatly enlarged it, and from whom it received the Name of Holland House, but that Family became extinct in 1759.

It received its most considerable Improvements both in the House and Grounds from Henry Fox, late Lord Holland, who for several Years made it his principal Residence. It is almost the only remaining Monument of our ancient Nobility in the Neighbourhood of London. This venerable Gothic Structure is built of Brick on a rising Ground; and, besides the great Improvements made in the Gardens and adjacent Grounds, is adorned within with some capital Paintings by eminent French Artists, and Portraits of the Richmond and Holland Families by Sir Joshua Reynolds and Mr. Ramsey. A few of the Apartments are modernised, the rest remain in their original State.

It is at present inhabited by Edward Bearcroft, Esq.

The celebrated Mr. Addison, who married the Countess of Warwick, lived in this House; and here was the Scene of his last Moments, and that moving Interview with his Son-in-law Lord Warwick, which is related in Dr. Young's "Letters "on Original Composition."

	•		•	,
	•

Become in hint the Sent of Sir Henry Oxenden

BROOME,

In KENT,

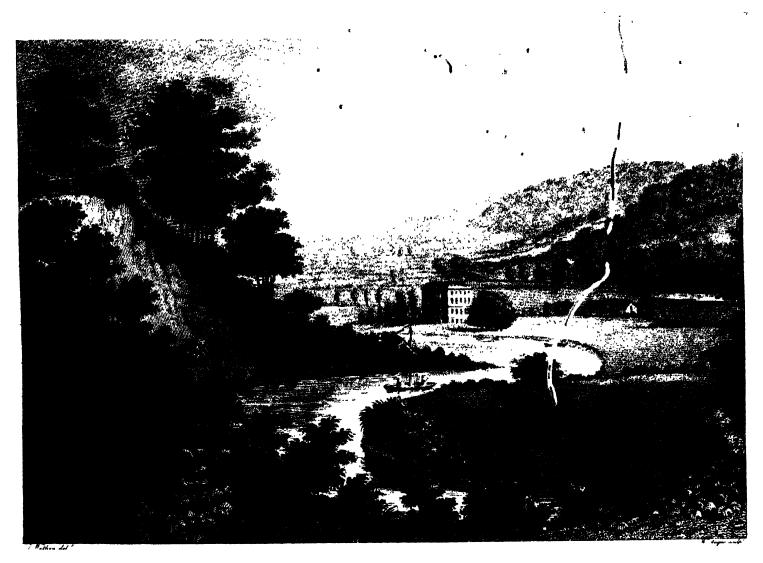

The Seat of Sir HENRY OXENDEN, Bart.

(From a Drawing by F. WHEATLEY, R.A.)

THIS ancient Structure is 64 Miles distant from London, and about eight North of Dover, situated in a most delightful Country, near the singular River of Naile Bourne, which seldom runs but once in two Years, and then with a rapid Course; after which it disappears. A short time before it breaks forth, the Meadows near it are covered with small Eels, which come through the Apertures of the Earth.

The Building is large, well laid out, and has been greatly improved by Sir Henry Oxenden; the original Structure was built by Inigo Jones, but received its present Embellishments, &c. under the Direction of Mr. J. Wyatt, the Architect. The Grounds are extensive, well kept, and parked in for Sheep.

The House contains a good Collection of Pictures by Italian Masters, in the highest Preservation. There are fine Woods, containing large Timber Trees, near the House, and some modern Plantations by the present Possessor, that add greatly to the Beauty of the Prospect, and enrich the Situation.

Moccas Court in Rivefordfhire the Scat of Air Coorge Cornewall

Post to a de that describe and the long of the good buildings of the price

MOCCAS COURT,

In HEREFORDSHIRE,

The Seat of Sir GEORGE CORNEWALL, Bart.

(From Drawing by Mr. JAMES WATHEN, of HEREFORD.)

THIS modern Villa is finely situated on the Banks of the River Wye, 144 Miles from London, eleven West from the City of Hereford, and ten from the Hay. It has lately been finished from the Design of Mr. Keeh, the Architect, and is much admired as an elegant and convenient House. The Offices are handsome, the Gardens and Pleasure Grounds spacious. and laid out with much Taste. Nor the House is a large Park, well wooded; from several Parts of it, and the adjoining Hills, the Views are truly pleasing, picturesque, and extensive. The River is seen to great Advantage, meandering through a highly cultivated Country, which in the present View forms a Resemblance to an extensive Amphitheatre. To the North East, the Malvern and Clee II Is, in Worcester, and Shropshire, are distinctly seen. The neighbouring Woods of Foxley, with Credon Hill and Dindar Car p, near Hereford, are distinguished objects. To the South West, the Hatterell Hills, more generally known by the Name of the Black Mountains, appear in heightened Grandeur; they form a noble Boundary between Herefordshire and Wales, are two Miles from Moccas, up the River Wue.

Near it is the Scite of Bredwardine Castle, once the Residence of the Family of the Vaughans: in its Vicinity is a handsome Bridge, built about twenty Years since, over the Wye, which has occasioned much travelling to South-Wales, through Herefordshire, the Post Road going over it.

The annexed View was taken from a Point called Brobbing Scarr, part of a large Estate a few years since purchased by Sir George Cornewall; it was formerly the Estate and Residence of the Family of the Capells: the old Mansion has long since been converted to a Farm-House.

Tong Castle in strepflire the Sout of Benja Channock Poster Hy!

T. O N G .C A S T . L E, $I_{In} S H R O P S H I R E.$

The Seat of BENJAMIN CHANNOCK PAYNE, Esq.

(Eroin a Drawing by ---- EVANS.)

TONG Castle, during the Saxon Heptarchy, belonged to the ancient Earls of Northumberland, from whom the Estate passed by Gradations not easily traced, till it came into the Possession of the late Duke of Kingston. It stands within three Miles of Shiffnall, in Shropshire; being ten Miles from Woolverhampton and Bridgenorth, twenty from Shrewsbury, 135 from London, and about eight from the curious much-admired Iron Bridge over the Severn.

The present Edifice was erected on the Scite of the old Castle, by the late General Durant, who purchased this Estate of the then Duke of Kingston, 1762, and was his own Architect on the Occasion. This Gentleman dying about the Year 1780, and his Son being at present in his Minority, Tong Castle is now (1789) in the Possession of Benjamin Channock Payne, Esq. who married Mrs. Durant, the late General's Widow.

The Building, which is grand and striking, stands nearly corresponding with the Cardinal Points, in a healthy, fruitful, and pleasant Plain, excellently well wooded and watered. It has one noble and elegant Front towards the East, which is that exhibited in the annexed Plane; and another to the West, with the most captivating and extensive rural Prospects. The extreme Length is 180 feet, the Breadth 68, and the Height 92. The Fronts are of durable Stone, built in the most regular and superb Style of Gothic Architecture, adorned with Turrets, Towers, and stately Gothic Domes.

The Apartments are fitted up and finished with uncommon Splendour, and contain one of the largest and best selected Collections of capital Paintings, and other Works of Vertu, to be met with in this Kingdom.

The Garden contains four Acres, walled round, well furnished with Fruit-Trees, and enriched with delightful Shrubberies. North East of the Castle, at the distance of about 600 Yards (in the Park) stands the venerable Parish Church of Tong, a much-admired Piece of Antiquity, which forms a very pleasing Object, and is remarkable for containing one of the largest Bells in England, as well as many rich, elegant, and ancient Monuments.

Per inched in the line director filly a grow by H. Sogue A & Sugaren Holdings Section grows

ALTRAM,

In. DEVONSHIRE,

The Seat of the Right Honourable Lord BORINGDON.

(From a Prawing by the Right Hon. Lord Viscount DUNCANNON.)

THIS Edifice is situated about 5 Miles East of Phymouth, and 216 Miles from London, on an eminence near Lary Bay, and the upper continuation of Cataster, into which the River Plym discharges itself. The Grounds are well laid out, and are beautifully wooded; and from the House is a fine View of the Town, Citadel, and Harbour of Plymouth, terminated by Mount Edgecumbe, Maker Tower, &c. Drake's and Nicholas Islands are distinguishable objects in the View; the whole of which is considerably enlivened when the Tide is in, by the Shipping, &c. &c.

The late Lord (when Mr. Parker) added considerably to the House, under the direction of Mr. Adam, Architect, particularly a very elegant Room 50 feet by 25, and 25 feet high, most magnificently fitted up with very large Glasses, &c. The Ceiling was painted by Zucchi. In the Apartments are several good Pictures by Reubens, Vandyke, Angelica Kauffman, &c. &c.

When their Majesties, with the Princesses, made an excursion in the summer of 1789 into the West of England; they made this Seat their residence for several Days, and from hence visited the Dock-Yard, and neighbouring naturally.

Brough Hall in Forkalite, the Seal of Sti John Lawson.

BROUGH HALL,

In the NORTH RIDING of YORKSHIRE,

The Seat of Sir JOHN LAWSON, Bart.

(From a Drawing by - OUIT, of RICHMOND.)

THIS Structure formal strategy of the ancient family of Burgh, from whom it had its Name, and from them came into the present family by the North; but the View is rather confined. The House has been built above 200 Years, but considerably improved and altered to its present State by Sir John Lawson, who added the wings: that on the Western Side contains a handsome Staircase, an Sating Room 33 feet by 28, and a Drawing Room 38 feet by 22. The East Wing is appropriated to the Use of the Servants. The Hall in the centre of the House is 40 feet by 22, and has a Breakfasting Room over it nearly of the same distributes; all which Alterations were made under the Direction of Mr. Atkinson, of York.

This Place, before the Improvements, was the first Condition, closed up with old Walls and too much Wood; its present Possessor removed these chartest and among the numerous Additions; constructed the New Bridge over a Branch of the River Swale, and a maderal approach for Carriages, which gives the whole a pleasing appearance. The Bridge and Stables were designed and executed by Mr. Free, of Richmond.

In its Neighbourhood many Antiquities and Curiosities have been found, particularly a Gold Coin of Nero's, several Urns, &c. &c. The 1. cticulars of which may be seen in Camden, p. 750. and in Magna Britannia, Vol. VI. p. 609.

The Engraving is from a original Drawing in Sit John Lawson's Possession.

Lartington in Yorkshire, the Seat of Henry Maire Effi

Plant and the second of the second of the second

LARTINGITON,

In the NORTH RIDING & YORKSHIRE,

The Seat of HENRY MAIRE, Esquire.

(From a Drawing by --- HOWIT, of RICHMOND.)

THIS Building is situated about 244 Miles from London, 57 from York, and 2 from Barnard-Castle, on the Edge of the County, near the Banks of the River Tees. The whole has undergone considerable Improvements and Additions by the present Possessor, by whom the Gardens have been enlarged, and several extensive and thriving Plantations lain out, which gives a pleasing Variety to the Grounds, and greatly enlivens the Scene.

The House commands a pleasant variegated View to the East, terminated by the distant Cleveland Hills, and enriched with a Variety of Objects, among which, is the Town of Barnard-Castle, the wooded Banks of the River Tees, Rekeby-Park, the Sent of John Sawrey Morritt, Eq. &c.

The Drawing is in the possession of Henry Maire, Esq.

Clints in Forkshire, the Seat of Miles Stapleton Efgi

" Pale when we tre that derive july , says by the Sugar & Joyngames Buildings of lington !

CLINTS,

In the NORTH RIDING of YORKSHIRE,

The Seat of MILES STAPLETON, Esquire.

(From a Drawing by ----- HOWIT, of RICHMOND.

THE Time when this Mansion was built we are not acquainted with, but from its appearance it is doubtless of considerable Antiquity, and is situated about 5 Miles from Richmond, 48 from York, and 236 from London. It formerly belonged to the Family of Willans, from whom it passed to the Bathursts, and from them to the late Sir Charles Turner of Kirkleatham, from whom the present Proprietor acquired by Purchase.

The House is built on an Eminence, and commands both and extensive Prospects; the Views from it are romantic and hilly, much resembling those near the German Spa. To the South-cast it commands a pleasing View over the • House and Plantations of the late John Hutton of Marshe, Esq. a Gentleman well known upon the turf.

The River Swale, near which it is situated, adds greatly to the Beauty of the neighbouring Country, though not seen from the House.

This View is engraved from an original Drawing in the Possession of Miles Stapleton, Esq.

Seeks Cuffle in the country of Ducham, the Seat of Lord Darlington

R A B Y C A S T L E.

In the Bishoprick of DURHAM,

The Seat of the Right Honourable the Earl of DARLINGTON.

(From a Drawing by E. DAYES, Draughtfman to his Royal Highness the DUKE of YORK.)

THIS venerable Structure, of which the annexed View is a S.W. Aspect, is situated on the Banks of the Tees, near Barhard Castle, on the Borders of Yorkshire, is 17 Miles from the City of Durham, and 240 Miles from London. It was built originally by John de Neville, about the Year 1383, and though of so early a Date is an entire Fortress, once the Property of the See of Durham, and in the Reign of Edward III. permitted by the Bishop to be embattled. It was at Times the Property of the Bulmers, the Cliffords, and the Nevilles. A detached Tower bears the Name of the sirst, on which is a great Bass-relief of a Bull, holding a Flag-staff, and over its Shoulder a Shield; as does a Gateway that of the Name of Clifford; and a Tower in the South Front, that of Neville.

It is a most noble masty Building of its Kind, uninjured by any modern Improvements, is simply magnisheent, and strikes by its Magnitude, which, besides the Courts, covers an Acre of Ground. A Parade encircles the Castle, secured by an embattied Wall; and the whole is surrounded by a great Foss, a Part of which is silled with Water. All the Towers are square.

The South Front is grand, the Centre of which has been thoroughly repaired from a Defign of Inigo Jones. The Park and ornamental Grounds are disposed with great Taste; and the Lawns, Woods, Plantations, &c. are remarkably beautiful. The whole Range of Grounds is seen to very great Advantage, by riding along the new Plantation; nor can any thing be more delightful than the Lawn which spreads over the adjoining Hills, and among the Woods; so as to appear in different Sweeps of Green, indenting in some Places the Woods, and breaking through them in others.

The chief Entrance is on the West, and is very grand; it leads to a Square, within which is a great Hall, supported by fix Pillars, the Capitals diverging and running in Ribs along the arched Roof; into this Hall, Carriages are admitted to take up Company. A Staircase leads from this into an upper Hall of the sirst Magnitude, viz. 90 Feet long, 36 broad, and 34 high; the Roof slat and made of Wood. Here affembled in the Time of the Nevilles, 700 Knights, who held of that Family. Over the Chimney is a Picture of Queen Elizabeth, and in different Apartments are several good Paintings by various Masters. King James the First slept in this Castle on his first Journey to England.

In a Breakfast Room the Recesses are in the Form of Semicircles, scooped out of the Walls, which are 9 Feet 1 Inch thick; a Window is in each of these. Here is a Recess for a Bed gained out of the Wall, and several other Conveniences and Communications quarried out of it; and in some Places Pillars are lest, as in Collieries, to support the Roof.

The Oven was of Dimensions suited to the Hospitality of those Times, higher than a tall Person, for the tallest may stand upright in it; and its Diameter about 15 Feet. At present it is converted into a Wine Cellar; the Sides are divided into 10 Bins, and each holds a Hogshead of Wine in Bottles.

The Kitchen is a magnificent and lofty Square, having three Chimnies; one for the Grate, a fecond for Stoves, the third (now stopped up) for the great Caldron. The Top is arched, and a small Cupola in the Centre lights it; but on the Sides are five Windows, with a Gallery passing all round before them, and four Steps from each pointing down towards the Kitchen, but ending a great Height above the Floor: their Use is not known; probably they were only meant for Ornament. From the Floor is another Staircase that conducts to the great Hall, but the Passage is now stopped: in short, the Whole of the Building conveys to the Observer a just Idea of the Magnificence of former Days.

Sheffield Place in Suface the Sent of Lord Sheffield

SHEFFIELD PLACE,

In SUSSEX.

The Scat of the Right Honourable Lord SHEFFIELD.

(From a Drawing by HUMPHREY REPTON, Esq.)

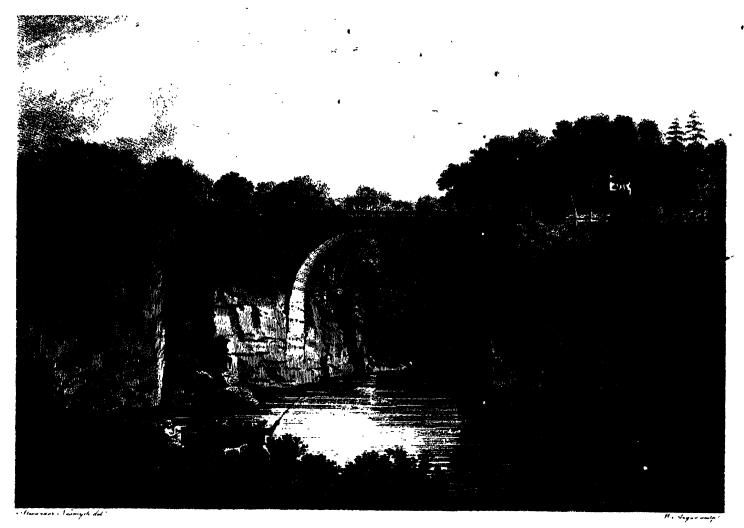

THE great Alterations and Improvements this elegant Gothic Structure has undergone fince Mr. Watts's Publication of the N. E. Aspect, induced us to introduce the present picturesque View of the S. E. Front; the whole has been much improved, beautified, and enlarged, at a considerable Expence, by the present Possession, under the Direction of Mr. James Wyatt, Architect, particularly the South Front. The House is very large, and pleasantly situated in a beautiful and extensive Park, between East Grinsled and Lewes, and is 37 Miles from London. The Outside is in the best Gothic Taste, enriched with Pinnacles, and a beautiful Chapel Window, the whole being light, cheerful, and elegant. Round the Battlements are the Arms of the ancient Possession of the Lordship of Sheffield, from Earl Godwin, who was the Owner before the Conquest, as appears by Doomssay Book. William granted the Manor to Robert, Earl of Mortaigne and Cornwall, his Half-brother: it afterwards passed through the Families of Lancaster, Dalyngrig, Norfolk, Dorset, Abergavenny, and Delawar, to the present Lord Sheffield.

The interior Parts contain a fine Suite of Apartments, some very singular. A magnificent Gothic Staircase is an Example of the Beauty and Elegance of that Style, when the Parts are judiciously chosen and properly arranged. There are several good Pictures in the Apartments, and a Ceiling which is much admired both for its Elegance of Design and good Painting. The Entrance into the Park is through a large Gothic Arch shaded by great Trees; on each Side are Lodges for the Gate-keeper.

The finest Part of the Park cannot be introduced with a View of the House, near which is a large Piece of Water, whose whose Borders are variegated partly by hanging Woods, and partly by Lawns, interspersed with the largest Trees. The Garden Grounds contain upwards of 100 Acres, which, with the Park, have every Advantage of Water, Diversity of Ground, large Timber, and sine Shrubs.

The distant and near Views from the House and Grounds are extremely pleasing, including the picturesque Views in the Park, with the Prospect of the neighbouring Country, terminated by a fine View of the South Downs.

Berskimming in Wolfand, the Seat of Sir William Millar Mil.

The second of the second of the second of the second of the second

BARS·KIMMING,

In AYRSHIRE, SCOTLAND,

The Seat of Sir WILLIAM MILLAR, Baronet.

(From a Drawing by ALEXANDER NASMYTH.)

THIS Edifice is fituated about 6 Miles from the County Town of Ayr, 70 S. W. from Edinburgh, and 398 N. W. from London, on the Banks of the River of the same Name, which is navigable but a little Way above the Town. This Structure commands most beautiful and picturesque Views from its remarkably elevated Situation.

The Bridge, contiguous to the House, is one extensive Arch; it was built about 28 Years ago by the late Sir Thomas Millar, Father to the present Possessor. Its Dimensions to the Crown of the Arch are 90 Feet or upwards, and the Diameter 90 Feet, built upon the solid Rock.

The old Building was in great Part pulled down in the Year 1771, and the prefent House erected, which appears at a furprising Height from the Bed of the River, though placed very near its Banks. The Whole has a most charming and romantic Appearance from the Spot from whence this View was taken.

The second of the Seat of John Arnold Wallenger Lig'

HARE HALL,

In ESSEX.

The Seat of JOHN ARNOLD WALLENGER, Esquire.

(From a Picture painted by THOMAS DAY, Esq.)

THIS beautiful Structure is fituated 13 Miles from London, and 1 Mile beyond Rumford on the Chelmsford Road; was begun in the Year 1769 on the Site of an old House, the Residence of Mr. Wallenger, Uncle to the present Possessor. It was erected under the Direction of Mr. Payne, the Architect, and the Garden and Pleasure Grounds laid out and improved by Mr. Wood, of Fsex.

The House is built of Portland Stone, with Wings connected to it by a small Colonnade. The principal Staircase is very neat, and receives its Light from a Dome at Top. The chief Drawing Room, 36 Feet by 20, is an elegant Apartment (commanding delightful Views in different Directions), and extends the whole Length of the House; and in the smaller Drawing Room, which is in the Centre of the House, are six charming Pictures by Angelica Kaussman, of the Triumph of Love; a sew Sca-pieces by Serres; and some others. The Dining Room is an excellent Apartment, which in the View is at that Corner where a Figure is looking out. From the upper Rooms are extensive Views to the South and West of the Thames, Shooter's Hill, and the distant Hills in Kent. The Wings contain the Offices and Servants' Apartments.

The Stables are at a Distance behind the high Elms at the Back of the House. The Piece of Water has the Appearance of a winding River, over which is a Stone Bridge at one of its Terminations, and at the other End are some remarkably sine weeping Willows. On the opposite Side of this Canal is the Elysian Walk, raised with the Earth which was taken up to form the Piece of Water, which has considerably added to the Beauty of the Grounds, by giving a pleasing Elevation to the opposite Bank; and from thence is a Communication at the Back of the high Elevation a server as a server Mile in Length, whose Sides are planted with a Variety of flowering Shrubs and Forest Trees, and extends to the Lodge by the Side of the great Road.

At the Back of the Group of Elms, in a sequestered Walk, is Part of the Body of a petrified Tree, brought from the Isle of Portland, which, from the Grains and Knots, still retains the Appearance of Wood, but its Touch and Colour prove it Stone.

From the House you command a full View of the great Road to Chelmsford, &c. likewise over Benyon's Woods to Havering Park and Bower, situated on the opposite Hills.

Chelle Cattle in Mid Tothian, the Seat of the R. Hon Me Henry Dundas.

MELVILLE CASTLE,

In MID-LOTHIAN, SCOTLAND,

The Seat of the Right Honourable HENRY DUNDAS.

(From a Drawing by Mr. J. MEHEUX.)

THIS Structure is situated in a Vale, on the Banks of the North Esk River, at Laswade, 6 Miles South of the City of Edinburgh, and 373 from London. It was once the Hunting-Seat of the unfortunate Mary Queen of Scots; and here David Rizio, the object of her Husband's Jealousy and Revenge, had his Residence. An Oak and 2 Ash Trees are now growing here, which Tradition says were planted by him, which their size and venerable appearance seem to confirm.

In 1786, Mr. Dundas had the decayed old Castle taken down, and the present Stone Edifice creeted on its Site, after a Design of Mr. John Playfair, of which the annexed Plate is a North View.

The principal Apartments are elegant and spacious, but the Stair-case is the most striking Part of the internal Architecture.

Nature has been remarkably liberal in the general Disposition of the Grounds about the House, that the whole is capable of doing credit to the most regular Taste.

The Esk River, which passes near the House, sometimes rushes with impetuosity, and in different places forms beautiful Cascades; and at other times in sweet contrast glides slowly on in majestic silence; the beauty of which is considerably heightened by the pieces of irregular Rocks that lye scattered promisenously in the River, which is overhung with the rich foliage of Forest and other Trees that fringe its Banks.

From the elevated spots the diversified Views are beautiful and extensive; and in the Vale the Scenes are pleasingly romantic and picturesque. In short, the Hills and Dales of this delightful spot, exhibit their superior Beauties, enriched with Wood and Water, in a very ample manner.

Amongst the principal objects that enrich the Views from Melville Castle at various distances, are the Towns of Dalkeith, Dulhousie Castle, Arniston, another Seat of the Dundas Family; Clarkington, belonging to Robert Hepburn, Esq. the Pentland-Hills, Arthur's-Seat, &c. &c. with an extensive and beautiful Sea View of the Ships riding in the Frith of Forth.

The Castle itself, "bosom'd high in tufted trees," forms a very picturesque Object from the distant Eminence; and had its name from having been once the Residence of the Secretary of that Name in Queen Mary's Reign.

Panton Boule in Lincolnjhor, the Seat of Libourial Ternor Life

PANTON HOUSE,

In LINCOLNSHIRE,

The Seat of E D M U N D T U R N O R, Esquire.

(From a Drawing by CLAUDE NATTES.)

THIS Building, of which the annexed View is a S. E. Aspect, is situated 15 Miles N. E. of Lincoln, and 150 from London in the same direction; on an Eminence at the Foot of the Wolds, and commands over the adjoining Country a most extensive View.

The House was planned by Mr. N. Hawkesmoor, a Pupil of Sir John Vanburgh's, and built about the Year 1720 by Mr. Joseph Gace, Receiver of the Land-Tax for the Lindsay Division of this County. The Gardens and Walks were laid out in the Dutch Stile, which at that time prevailed; and the premises were afterwards severally possessed by Carr Brackenbury, Esq. and Sir Jacob Holff, Bart, who sold it to Edmund Turnor, Esq. the present Proprietor, in 1775; who added the Wings and handsome Stables in the form of a Quadrangle; and has likewise considerably improved and ornamented the Grounds with extensive Plantations, under the direction of Mr. Eames, of Derby. The Views from it are enriched by several delightful Objects, and Lancoln Cathedral, that noble Monument of Antiquity, is amongst those that are visible from Panton-House.

A hongst other Paintings here, is a fine Portrait of Sir Christopher Turnor, a Baron of the Exchequer in the time of While II, which was esteemed by Sir Joshua Reynolds, a chef d'auvre of Sir Peter Lily's Painting.

,

the world on the effort fluid, the Sext of George Prosecut Ly

But the second of the second contract of the second descriptional of

THEO'BALD'S,

In HERTFORDSHIRE,

The Seat of GEORGE PRESCOTT, Esquire.

(From a Drawing by I. C. BARROW, F.S. A.)

WILLIAM Cecil, Baron Burleigh, Lord Treasurer in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, built a magnificent Seat at Theobalds, where he fagurently entertained her Majesty and her Attendants, at an immense expence, and gave it to his youngest son, Sir Robert Cecil, (afterwards by James I. created Earl of Salisbury) who exchanged it, at the desire of James I. for the Manor of Hatfield; which King made it his Hunting-Seat, and died here. Charles II. gave it to George Monk, Duke of Albemarle, on the Death of whose Son, in 1687, without Male Issue, it devolved to the Crown, and William III. granted it to Henry Bentinck, Earl of Portland, whose Grandson, the Duke, sold it to Mr. Prescott, who pulled down the decayed Palace, and built the present Seat.

This Building, of which we have given a South Aspect, is a large modern Brick House, about 12 miles from London, with suitable and extensive Offices, was built about 30 years ago, by the late George Prescott, Esq. which has been considerably improved, and the Grounds embellished and laid out in the modern Taste by his Son, the present Possessor.

The New River runs through the Grounds, which are very extensive and beautiful, the whole is in the Parish of Cheshunt; which Name is derived from the number of Chesnut Trees with which it abounded, and of that Timber the greatest part of its ancient Houses were constructed. The Park, which was encompassed by a Brick Wall, was 10 Miles in Circuit, built by James I, who took great delight in this Palace, and died here March 27, 1625. This Palace was plundered in 1651, and defaced so as to become from a princely Residence, a Village, and the Park was converted into Farms.

In its neighbourhood resided Richard Cromwell, the abdicated Protector, in a very private manner, from 1660 to 1712, when he died in the 86th year of vis age. A striking lesson how much obscurity and peace are to be preferred to the splendid infelicity of guilty Ambition. In the Neighbourhood is Killmore Field, where are the remains of a Camp, and an oblong Fortification is yet visible, with a Rampart and Ditch, which may be traced for 100 Yards.

Near Theobalds is Waltham Cross, erected in memory of Queen Eleanor, Wife to Edward I. it being one of the Places where her Corpse was rested in journeying from Hardeby, near Grantham, in Lincolnshire, to Westminster Abbe; the Place of her Interment. We understand it is the Intention of the present Proprietor of Theobalds, to remove this Piece of Antiquity into his Grounds, to preserve so remarkable a Monument of those times as much as possible from further Injury.

Genve House in Middleson, the Seat of Me Lither.

,	• • • •	•	1

GROVE HOUSE,

In M I D D L E S E X.

The Seat of Mrs. LUTHER.

(From a Drawing by Mr. W. WATTS.)

THIS elegant Villa is situated in the Parish of Chiswick, and inferior to but a few on the Banks of the Thames, though surrounded by a great number of Seats of People of Fortune. It is situated in a walled Paddock of near 100 Acres, coveged with very large old Chesnut Trees and Oaks, which give it more the Air of a Palace than of a Villa so near the Metropolis; being about 6 Miles from London, and not 2 South of the High Road.

The Pleasure Grounds slope from the House to the River Thames, which, especially at High Water, afford the pleasantest Scenery imaginable.

The Plantations are upon a large Scale, without that petiteness of Taste too prevalent in most of our modern Villas.

It was purchased of the late Earl Cowper, by the Right Hon. Humphrey Morice, who added very extensive Offices, with a Riding House, and excellent Stabling for 30 Horses. He gave it by will to Mrs. Luther, Relict of John Luther, Esq. late one of the Representatives for the County of Surry.

NETTLECOMBE COURT,

In SOMERSETSHIRE.

The Seat of Sir JOHN TREVELYAN, Bart.

(From a Drawing by SMITH.)

THIS venerable Gothic Structure is situated near Raleigh Down, in a Bottom near Brendon Hill, 4 Miles from Watchet, on the Bristol Channel, (which at this Place is 18 Miles bread, and is opposite to Glamorganshire, in South Wales,) being 15 Miles from Taunton, 20 from Bridgewater, and 160 West from London. It has been the Residence of the present ancient Family for several Generations, and is situated near the Parish Church of its own Name in a fertile Vale, surrounded by well-cultivated Hills, enriched on the West by a beautiful Grove of Oaks, and watered by a Rivulet, which, passing by Orchard Wyndham and William, falls at Denniford into the Ocean.

The Date on the old Front of the House is 1599, but it was not finished till 1603. The Hall is venerable and much esteemed by Lovers of Gothic Architecture.

The Grounds contain about 200 Acres, which abound with Springs, and from its being hilly, and well planted with Oak and other Timber Trees, afford a Variety and Beauty that charms the Beholder with its Exuberance.

A few years since, in a field called Knap-Dane, a very considerable Quantity of human Bones were dug up, said to have been the Consequence of a Danish Defeat in 918.

We mention the Arms of this Family from a singular Circumstance respecting it, which deserves to be noticed: The Arms are Gules, a Demi-Horse Argent, armed Or, issuing out of the Sea in Base proper; a Bearing, according to Tradition, adopted from the Circumstance of one of the Family swimming on Horseback from the Seven Stones to the Land's End in Cornwall, at the time those Rocks were separated from the Continent by a violent Inundation of the Ocean.

The Drawing is in the Possession of — Trevelyan, Esq.

Challont House in Bucking bumpling, the Seat of Thomas Hilbert Effer

CHALFON'T HOUSE,

I. BUCKINGHAMSHIRE,

The Seat of THOMAS HIBBERT, Esquire,

(From a Drawing by ____ TOMKINS.)

THIS Place is situated about 20 Miles West from London, a little to the Eastward of the Road to Amersham in Bucks, and by the Side of the Misbourne Stream, which, tising shows Missenden in this County, falls into the Colonnear Uxbridge.

Chalfont House, with the Manor of Brudnells belonging to it, having been forfsited to the Crewn in the Time of Charles II. in consequence of a Defalcation in the Accounts of the then Proprieter, who was Receiver General of some of the Taxes, was granted in the same Reign to James Herbert, Esq. and after passing through the Hands of several intermediate Owners, was purchased by Charles Churchill, Esq. in 1755.

The House is old, and though low, is pleasantly situated; and, as well as the Estate belonging to it, was considerably enlarged by Mr. Churchill, whose taste also very much improved the Place, particularly in the judicious Disposition of the Water and the Grounds, and interspersing the latter with Plantations in a Style of elegant Simplicity, suitable to the Character of a Ferme ornée, which is its present State.

By Mr. Churchill it was sold to the present Proprietor, who, adopting the same Taste, has added to the Improvements of his Predecessor.

This Drawing is in the Possession of Thomas Hibbert, Esq.

and well fordure in Efect, the beat of the Kev Henry Bate Dudle :

BRADWELL LODGE,

In ESSEX.

The Seat of the Rev. HENRY BATE DUDLEY

(From a Drawing by THOMAS MALTON, Jun.)

THIS Structure is distant 51 Miles East from London; and at an equal Distance from the Boroughs of Malden and Colchester, which are the nearest Towns to it. It was erected in the extensive Globe of the Rectory of Bradwell near the Sea, by the present Patron and Possessor of that valuable Adventure.

Henry the Eighth, in 1539, gave this Domain as a Dower to his discarded Queen Anne, of Cleves.

This elegant Chateau was begun in 1781, and finished in 1786, under the Direction of Mr. John Johnson the Architect, and is elevated so as to command a fine View of the German Ocean from the principal Rooms, which are spacious, but more extensively from an elegant Observatory on the summit of the House, the Ionic Columns of which ingeniously form the Chimnies of the whole Structure.

The Pictures here are not numerous but select, and of the best Masters: those most admired, are by Jean Steen, Van Goen, Gainsborough, Angelica Kauffman, and Morland. The celebrated Farmer's Stable, by the last Master, is in this Collection. The Ceiling of the Drawing-room is by Smirke.

The Scite of the Lodge is almost centrally placed between the Conflux of those three fine Rivers, the Blackwater, the Cronch, and the Coln, which here fall into the Ocean.

The adjacent Country, though we near the Sea, is finely wooded, and the Island of Mersea, hanging over the Black-water-bay, forms a most picturesque and beautiful Scene.

The principal Curiosities are the Decoys for catching Wild Fowl, which are taken here in great Abundance in the Winter Season; and the ancient Roman Edifice on the Sea Shore, called St. Peter's ad Murum.

Den Care Woldlager the Congressional bounds by Sherabac Riq.

LACY HOUSE,

In MIDDLESEX

Late the Seat of RICHARD BRINDSLEY SHERIDAN, Esq.

(From a Drawing by WILLIAM ANGUS.)

THIS Villa is delightfully situated on the Banks of the Thames, in the Purish of Islesworth, and is about 9 Miles from London, commanding most picturesque Views both up and down the River. It was built about 40 Years ago by Lacy, Esq. formerly one of the Patentees of Drury Lanc Theatre.

The Premises were purchased of a Mrs. Smith, whose House was pulled down, and the present Structure erected on nearly the same Spot. It was afterwards sold to the late Sir Edward Walpole, who resided at it till his Death, when he bequeathed it to his Daughter, Mrs. Keppell, Relict of the late Bishop of Exeter, who likewise made it her Residence for some Time; and lately it was occupied by Fichard Brindsley Sheridan, Esq.

It commands an extensive View of Richmond Hill and its Vicinity, &c. &c. with an immediate Prospect into the King's Gardens, which are on the opposite Side of the River.

The Garden is not large, but beautifully diversified. The Arches seen in the View in the distant Part of the Grounds, support a Bridge which is a Coach-way leading to the Back of the House. The small Gothic Temple, likewise shewn, is embellished with Busts of Shake yeare, Garrick, &c.

By its continguity to the Thames, and the rich Scenery of its Banks, with the Variety of moving Objects that constantly engage Attention, it may with great Propriety be called a charming Situation.

lamber Costie in the Livinte of Decham, the Seat of the Fael of Searborough

I was to be to be a first than a from a discount of the

LUMLEY CASTLE,

In the Bishoprick of DURHAM,

The Scat of the Right Hon. the Earl of SCARBOROUGH,

(From a Drawing by E. DAYES, Draughtsman to His Royal Highness the Duke of YORK.)

TIIIS venerable Structure is on the Eastern Bank of the River Weare, near Chester-le-street, about six Miles North of Durham, and 172 from London, situated in a tine Park, to which there is a handsome Entrance across the River Weare, and has been the Possession and Residence of the Ancestors of its present noble Proprietor from the Reign of Edward the Confessor. The present Structure was erected in the Reign of Edward I. by Sir Robert Lumley, and enlarged by his Son Marmaduke. It was made a Castle in the Reign of Richard II.

It is an extensive square Building with Towers at each Corner, having a large Court-yard in the Middle. It contains a great Number of spacious Apartments, antique as well as modera, embellished with the Portraits of a long Train of Ancestors for some Hundred Years past, in the Habits of the Times.

King James I. at his Accession to the Throne of England, in his Journey to London, was entertained in this Castle, when seeing the ancient Pedigree of the Family, which he thought incredible, turned to the Bishop of Durham who attended him, and said, he did not know before that Adam's Surname was Lumley. It is remarkable that the Entrance to this noble Seat is, you are obliged to be ferried over the river Weave from the High Road; which River is here very broad.

The Park, which is well wooded, befides its Pleafantness, has this much more valuable Circumstance to recommend it; that it is full of excellent Veins of the best Coals in the County, and having a navigable River adjoining it, conveys them, with little Expense to Sunderland.

Newmbon Court in Oxfordfore, the Seat of Bart Harcourt

NEWNHAM COURT,

In OXFORDSHIRE,

The Seat of the Right Honourable EARL HARCOURT,

(From a Drawing by W. ANGUS.)

THIS beautiful Seat is fituated fix Miles South of Oxford, three from Abingdon, and 56 from London, on an elevated Situation on the Eastern Bank of the Isis. The extensive and beautiful Lawn, the fine Park six Miles and a half in Circumserence, and the sloping Woods, with the gentle River, and verdant Meadows, form altogether one of the most delightful Scenes that Imagination can have any Idea of, or Fancy paint.

On the North Side the Colleges and Public Buildings in the City of Oxford present themselves to view; on the Western Side the Town of Abingdon, and the pleasant meandering River Isis, with its Navigation, attracts Attention; indeed the Prospect is unconfined and singularly varied, being extensive in Oxfordshire, and commanding the blue Hills of Berkshire called the Downs, the Vale of White-borse, and all that sertile Part of Berkshire as far as Farringdon Itill.

The Lawn, Park, and Gardens are laid out with excellent Judgment. The House, though not large, for its Neatness and Elegance of Architecture is pleasingly striking. It was built in 1760 of Stone, having two Wings which contain the Offices. Every Floor is arched to prevent the dreadful Ravages of Fire, yet every Apartment is next and convenient; it is furnished with Elegance and Taste, particularly the Saloon, which has a superb Ceiling, evidently copied from that at Whitehall Chapel, Westminster.

At a little Distance from Newnham Curt, the late Earl Harcourt, in 1764, creected a Church, on a Model of one of the Temples at Palmyra, and embellished it in a superb Manner. The Building is truly elegant, covered with a Dome, and is appropriated to the Use of the Village adjoining; the Old Church being too near the House, much out of Repair, and in a great Measure would have prevented the considerable Improvements that have been made in the Lawn, Park, &c.

Belton House in Lincolnshire, the Seat of Lord Brownfow

BELTON HOUSE,

In. LINCOLNSHIRE,

The Seat of the Right Honourable LORD BROWNLOW,

(From a Drawing by CLAUDE NATTES.)

THIS elegant Structure is about two Miles from Grantham, and 112 from London, in a remarkably fandy Valley, through which runs the River Witham, to which River there is a gradual Descent from the House, which sormerly belonged to the Brownlow's, Viscounts Tyrconnel of Ireland, and passed by Marriage of a Sister of the last Viscount to Sir John Cust, Bart. Speaker of the House of Commons, Father to the present sloble Possessor. The North and South Fronts extend 150 Feet, and those of the East and Westwoi Feet, containing 13 Rooms on a Floor, and three Staircases.

The principal Approach is to the South Front; this View is taken from that of the North. This noble Edifice is fituated in a Park, the Walls of which are between five and fix Miles in Circumference.

The Arm. hents contain a small but select Collection of Paintings by eminent Masters.

1.

The Roman Road, called Ermine Street, from London to the Humber, forms the Eastern Boundary of the Parish of Belton; in its Neighbourhood are several Traces of ancient Encampments, where many Antiquities have been dug up, as well as in his Lordship's Grounds.

Twickenham Park House in Middlacer, the Seat of Lord Frederick Cavendish

TWICKENHAM-PARK-HOUSE,

In MIDDLESEX.

The Seat of the Honourable Lord FREDERICK CAVENDISH,

(From a Drawing by W. ANGUS.)

THIS House is most delightfully situated near the Banks of the Thames, about nine Miles West of London, and is the Boundary of the Parishes of Isleworth and Twickenham. Its Site was in 1067 a Residence of William the Conqueror, and some of the Trees now standing are said to have been planted during that Time. Henry VIII. had in 1512 an occasional Residence here. In 1550 Queen Elizabeth repaired the Old House, and in 1594 rebuilt the whole Structure for the Farl of Essew, who greatly improved the Grounds, and planted here some of the Cedars of Lebanon. In 1692 William III. and Mary granted it to the Family of Vernon, who sold it to the Duchess of Montrose, by whom it was bequeathed to the Duchess of Newcastle, who made it her Residence; and it is now the Residence of its present noble Owner.

This House is built with Red Brick, and contains several handsome Apartments, with a noble Stancase, painted in a similar Manner to that at Windsor Castle. The Apartments contain some good Pictures.

The principal Front, which is given in the Print, is West, it commands some Picturesque and extensive Views up the Thames and Country bordering on its Banks; and being nearly opposite Richmond has a Command over that charming Spot, Richmond Hill, and its Bridge over the Thames, with a Variety of floating Objects perpetually gliding on the River, which with the rich Verdure o. its Banks form a pleasing, and enlivening Prospect.

The Grounds are extensive and ornamental, and by judicious Disposal may properly be termed Pleasure Grounds, blending Beauty with Utility.

Chemerster House in Gloucestinshire, the Seat of Earl Batherst . -

Some of the second of the seco

CIRENCESTER HOUSE,

In GLOUCESTERSHIRE,

The Seat of the Right Honourable Earl BATHURST,

(From a Drawing by G. SAMUEL.)

THIS Seat is fituated in the Town of Cirencester, 90 Miles from London, and 17 from Gloucester. It was formerly the Property of Lord Danby, and was purchased by Sir Benjamin Bathurst, in the Year 1695, from whom it descended to the late Earl Bathurst, who purchased a large Estate adjoining to it of Sir Robert Atkins, and, taking down the old House, built the present Mansion upon the Site of it. "It has a Free-stone Front next the Town, but its high Wall, lined with Evergreens, prevents the View on that Side. This Seat is distinguished by its extensive and elegant Plantations. The Park is well-stocked with Deer; the Entrance to it is at a Lodge on the North Side of the House, by a spacious Gravel Walk lined on each Side with stately Elms. At a small Distance from the Entrance, on the lest, is an oblique Prospect of the Northeast Front of the House, with a fine Sweep-Lawn before it, and a Grove of losty Trees on each Side; turning to the Right, the Walk divides, one Branch of it leads to the Terrace, the other runs by the Side, in a serpentine Direction, about a Mile in Length, sinely arched and shaded by the Plantations through which it passes. At suitable Distances it communicates with the Terrace, where are several Buildings and Benches for the Convenience of resting and Prospect. At the End of the serpentine Walk is a small Building, called Pope's Seat, perhaps, because that great Genius frequently retired thither when he visited his noble Friend at Cirencesser.

There is a Lawn before it, from the Centre of which eight Vistas are directed, which terminate with the Prospect of reighbouring Churches, and other agreeable Buildings; one of those Objects is a fine losty Column, in the Midst of the Deer Park, on which is placed the Statue of Qu in Anne, larger than Life.

This Pillar is near a Mile distant from the House, behind which stands the beautiful Tower of the Parish Church of Cirencesser, so directly in the Centre, with their Fronts parallel to each other, that an Observer, at the Pillar, might be easily induced to believe the Tower to be a Part of his Lordship's House, was it not of a different Colour.

The Terrace is sheltered on the North-east by a thick Plantation of Wood, with a most agreeable Border of Shrubs and Ever-greens. It commands a distant Prospect of the North of Wiltshire, and terminates at a handsome octagonal Building about a Mile from the House. In the Middle of the Terrace is a large Par of Iron Gates for Communication between the Deer and Lodge Parks. At these Gates is seen a large Piece of Water, a little to the Right of the House, which resembles a Part of a considerable River; tho' only a pleasing Deception: as Nature has dealt her Favours to this Place with so sparing a Material, as to that Element, that there is not perhaps a perennial Spring to be found within it. This agreeable Effect is produced by planting Clumps of Trees to conceal the Extremities of the Lake, which is one of the numberless Instances of fine Taste every where to be seen in the Description of this Place, perfected in the Manner we now see it by the particular Directions of the present noble Proprietor. The Eye is no where offended with the Appearance of bare Walls, nor can it judge of the Extent of the Park, as the Country about is taken into View over Fosses, and concealed Boundaries made for that Purpose, where they have the best Effect. Adjoining to the Deer Park, westward, are the Lodges of Oakley Park and Oakley Wood, particularly meriting the Traveller's Attention.

9 Rudder's Gloucestershire.

Deaners in Somersetshire the Seal of the Rev Lord Francis Sevinous.

E

In SOMERSETSHIRE.

The Seat of the Reverend Lord FRANCIS SEYMOUR.

(From a Drawing by J. CARTER, F. A. S.)

THIS venerable Gothic Mansion is situated at Wells, 127 Miles from London, 16 Miles from Bath, and 15 from Briftol. between the House, formerly belonging to the Archdeaconry, but fince the Dissolution converted into a Lay Fee, and now used as an Assembly Room, and the West Gate of the Close. It is a large handsome House, built by Dean Gunthorpe, who in it entertained King Henry VII. on his return from the West of England. In allusion to the Founder's Name feveral large Guns carved in stone are seen pointed through the Walls of the Building.

John Gunthorpe was Chaplain to King Edward IV. who fent him, together with Bernard de la Forsse, Esq. to negociate a Peace with the King of Caftile, 1466; Dr. John Alcok, afterwards Bishop of Elv, was added to this Commission, 1470. He was Almoner to the same King; and was in a Commission of Trust to hold the Lands of Sir Thomas Burgh, Kt. 1475, when the King was preparing for an Expedition against France; and in 1477, in another Commission to treat of Peace with that Kingdom, likewife to prolong the Truce between the two Kingdoms; and in 1479, to extend the Powers of the Treaty." In the short Reign of Richard III. the great Scal was delivered to the Bishop of Lincoln., 1483, in the presence, among others, of John Gunthorpe, Keeper of the Privy Seal, to which he was appointed by that King, and for which he had an Allowance of 20s. a day out of the Customs of the Port of Sandwich, and other Ports.' This Office he held the following Year, when he was joined in a Commission for a Truce between the Kings of England and Scotland, and [.] Rymer, Fæd. xi. p. 572.

^{· 1}b. p. 653.

d lb. p. 637. 1468.

h Ib. p. 98, 104.

¹ Ib. p. 194, 197. 1 lb. p. 235. · lb. p. 189, 203.

next Year for confirming that between Richard and the Duke of Bretagne." In the Reign of Henry VII. he was employed to treat with the King of the Romans, 1486; and the same Year, to treat with the King of Castile and Leon; also, 1490, wish France."

John Gunthorpe, L. L. D. was elected Dean December 18, 1472, and confirmed January 19, following. He died June 25, 1498, and was buried in the Cathedral, near Bishop Drokensford, in St. Catharine's Chapel, on the right Hand going to the Lady's Chapel.

Upon the Infurrection in Cornwall headed by Perkin Warbeck, 1498, and the Submission of his Army upon his taking Sanctuary in Beaulieu Abbey, Hampshire, Henry VII. took a Progress to Exeter, when the siege and assault of Perkin had failed. Here the King received his Submission; and probably in his way thither, or return back, was lodged in the Deanery House at Wells, in the last Year of its Founder's Life.

```
m Rymer, Foed. xi, p. 261.
```

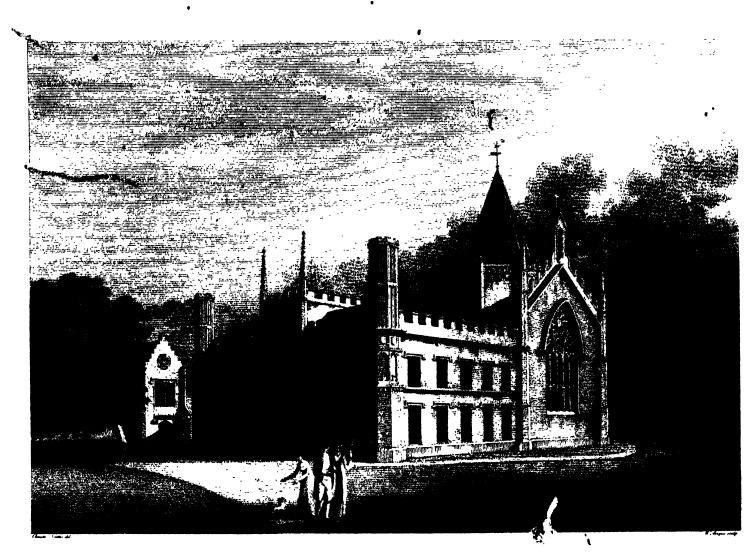

9 Godwin, p. 376.

[&]quot; Ib. p. 319, 320, 321, In the Instrument, p. 320, he is styled Utriusque juris Doctor.

[•] lb. p. 336.

P 1b. p. 431.

•
~
•
•
•
	•

Lee m Kent the Seat of Thomas Barrett Efq*

L E E,

In KENT.

The Seat of THOMAS BARRETT, Esq.

(From a Drawing by CLAUDE NATTES.)

THIS Refidence is fituated 60 Miles East of London, and Four from Canterbury in the Road to Sandwich and Deal.

It was purchased of the Southland Family, in 1676, by Sir Paul Barrett, Knt. Serjeant at Law, great Grandfather to the present Possessor.

The House, which was indifferent, has been, by the Skill and Art of Mr. Wyatt, without enlarging its Extent, so admirably improved in the Disposition, that the Ground-sloor contains a small Hall, a good common Parlour, an excellent eating Room, a noble Drawing-room, and a handsome Staircase. Above are good Apartments, a charming Closet, and a most beautiful Library, designed and exquisitely finished in the most perfect Style of Gothic.

The three Fronts of the House convey an Idea of a small Convent, never attempted to be demolished, but partly modernised, and adapted to the Habitation of a Gentleman's Family.

The Scene around presents correspondent Images, gently-rising Grounds, ancient Trees, and a small River, called the Little Stour, and seems to form a Site scleeted by Monks much at their Ease, with a View rather to a cheerful Retirement than to austere Meditations; while, at the same Time, no distant Prospects tantalized them with Views of Opulence and busy Society.

The Content of an independent Exalife Gentleman succeeded naturally to similar Enjoyments; and Mr. Wyatt's Judgment has preserved that Coalescences of I and realized an Union which Mr. Barrett's good Taste preserved to Ostentation.

In the House is a small but well-chosen Collection of Pictures, particularly that Chef d'Oeuvre of Holbein, the original Portrait of Anne of Gleve.

North Court House in the Isle of Wight, the Seat of Richard Bull, Efq.

NORTH COURT HOUSE,

In the Isle of WIGHT, HAMPSHIRE,

The Seat of RICHARD BULL, Esq.

(From a Drawing by J. C. BARROW.)

THIS ancient Residence is two Miles from Kingston, and about 100 Miles from London. By a Survey of, the Island, taken in the second Year of Queen Elizabeth, the Manor of North Shorwell appears to have been in the Possessian of Thomas Temes, Esq.; and towards the End of the same Reign it became, by purchase, the Property of Sir John Leigh, Knt. in whose immediate Descendants it remained till bought, in the Year 1793, by Richard Bull, Esq. of Chipping Ongar in Esfex.

The present Manor House, called North Court, is situated near the said Village of North Shorwell, in the pleasant Valley leading from Newport to Brixton, and about five Miles South-west from the sormer. It was erected by the above Sir John Leigh about the Year 1615, and is a remarkable strong-built respectable Mansion of Freestone. The late worthy Barnaby Eveleigh Leigh, Esq. expended considerable Sums in altering and improving the Inside; but unfortunately, his Taste lead him to preser modern Sash Windows, to the large projecting Casements he sound here, and by that Means the North Front has lost much of its venerable Aspect. The present Owner has sitted up and surnished the different Apartments with a great Degree of comfortable Elegance, without any Pretence to Finery.

The Pleasure Grounds are sufficiently extensive, well-wooded, and neatly kept; and rising boldly from the House, afford many picturesque Views both of Sea and Land.

Almost at the Garden Gate the High Downs begin, and continue with little or no Interruption, for more than to Miles, to the Light House upon Fresh Water Cliffs; the great and commanding Features of which are seen in full Prospect all the Way. A long Extent of the English Channel appears at a small Distance on the Lest, very frequently covered with large Fleets and Convoys; and on the said his a full View of the open Sea, with the Woods of the New Forest in the back Ground, and the beautiful Englosures of the Island spreading themselves like a Map between the Downs and the Sea, on each Side.

ì

Lambeth Palace in Surrey, the Scat of the Arch Bishop of Canterbury.

1

LAMBETH PALACE,

The Residence of His Grace the Archbishop of CANTERBURY.

(From a Drawing by —— COOKE.)

THIS venerable Structure is fituated on the South Side of the River Thames, nearly opposite Westminster Abbey and Hall. A Foundation for a collegiate Church was begun here by Archbishop Baldwin, the Manor of which his Successor, Archbishop Walter, in 1197, exchanged with the Bishop of Rochester, in whose Diocese it is situated, for the Manor of Darent in Kent. The present Structure was begun by Archbishop Boniface, in the 13th Century, and continued to be enlarged by his Successors till 1435, when Archbishop Chicheley erected the Lollards' Tower. His Successors expended large Sums on this Palace. It was nearly destroyed during the Civil Wars. After Charles the First's Decollation it soil to the Possession of Colonel Scott, who converted the Chapel into a Dancing Room, demolished the great Hall, and, in many Respects, rendered the whole of the Palace a ruinous Pile. It was restored by Archbishop Juxon, who rebuilt the Hall at the Expence of 10,300/.: it is 93 Feet long by 38 broad; and the succeeding Archbishops have spared no Cost to render it worthy of being the Residence of the Primate of all England.

The Garden and Buildings cover 12 Acres, 3 Roods, and 21 Perches, and is watered by Canals from the Thames. Over the Gateway is the Repository of the Archives of the See of Canterbury. The Porter's Lodge is supposed to have been used as a Prison, as there are some Iron Rings fastened in the Wall, like others in the Lollards' Tower. The Presence' Chamber has three Windows of anciest painted Glass. The long Gallery, 89 Feet 9 Inches by 15 Feet 9, is filled with Portraits, chiefly of Prelates. From a grant or Bow Window is a fine View of the Lawns and Plantations; with an Opening, through which Westminster Abbey, the Bridge, &c. re seen to great Advantage. In the great Dining Room are Portraits of all the Archbishops from Laud to Cornwallis.

through

The Lollards' Tower has its Name from being the Prison of some of the Opposers of Papal Authority. The Room wherein they were confined is at the Top of the Building, 12 Feet long and 9 broad. In the Wainscot, which is Oak an Inch thick, are fastened eight large Iron Rings. On the Wainscot are various half Sentences and Scratches, with Names and Letters, cut with a Knife, and supposed to have been done by the unhappy Prisoners confined there.

The Library was founded by Archbishop Bancroft in 1610, and by his Successors has been considerably increased. This Library stands over the Cloisters, forms a narrow Gallery, which occupies the four Sides of the Quadrangle, and contains upwards of 25,000 Volumes. The Library of Manuscripts, which contains 11,000 Tracts, is over Part of the former.

Bradbourn in Kent, the Seat of Sir John Papillon Twisden Bart

BRADBOURN,

. In K E N T,

The Seat of Sir JOHN PAPILLON TWISDEN, Baronet.

(From a Drawing by CLAUDE NATTES.)

BRADBOURN is in the Parish of East Malling, and is situated in the Middle of a Park of about three Miles in Circumference, beautifully wooded, with a fine Piece of Water running through the Middle of it from West to East, which falls into the Medway at about a Mile and a Half distant, on the North. It is situated on the London Road to Maidstone, and about five Miles West of that Town, and 31 from the Capital. The principal Fronts are to the West, and South, the latter of which is the Aspect of the Engraving, and is 120 Feet in Length; the West Front is 90 Feet. These Fronts were built about the Year 1720, by Sir Thomas Twisden, Bart. Grandsather to the present Possessor; the other Parts of the House are of a much older Date.

The Dimensions of the Ground Floor are as follow: Dining Parlour, 42 Feet by 25, and 25 Feet high; Breakfast Room, 30 by 20, and 16 high; Small Drawing Room, 25 by 18, and 14 high; Drawing Room, 32 by 21, and 14 high. Two Halls, with Staircases.

The Apartments are embellished with some good Paintings, particularly six of Panini's Ruins, and several Landscapes by eminent foreign Masters.

Connersbury House in Middleson, the Sent of Walter Stirling Efq"

GUNNERSBURY HOUSE,

In MIDDLESEX.

The Seat of WALTER STIRLING, Esquire.

(From a Drawing by E. DAYES, Draughtsman to His Royal Highness the Duke of York.)

THIS noble Structure stands in the Parish of Eling, about seven Miles from London, and was the Seat of the late Princess Amelia; it was built by Inigo Jones. It is situated on a rising Ground, and the Approach to it from the Garden is remarkably sine. The Loggia has a beautiful Appearance at a Distance, and commands a fine Prospect of Surry, of the Thames, and of all the Meadows on its Banks for a great Extent, even to London. The Apartments are well contrived: the Hall, which is spacious, is on each Side supported by Rows of Columns, and from thence you ascend by a noble Flight of Stairs to a Saloon, which is a double Cube of 25 Feet high, and most elegantly embellished. This sine Room has an Entrance into the Portico on the back Front, which is supported by Columns, and, from the Fineness of the Prospect, is rendered a delightful Situation in the Afternoon in the warm Months in Summer.

The Gardens were greatly improved by her Royal Highness, to which many Additions were made by Plantations, additional Grounds, and elegant Erections.

Duffryn Alled in Denhigh foire, the Seat of Philip York Efq? - williand a the Ad deate of the North Brown to Sugar.

		•

DUFFRYN-ALLED,

In DENBIGHSHIRE,

The Seat of PHILIP YORK, Esquire.

(From a Drawing by Mr. J. BIRD, of Liverpool.)

THIS Building is fituated by the Side of a Hill that bounds the Vale from whence it derives its Name, and is about nine Miles from Denhigh, the County Town, and 209 from London. It was built by Mrs. Meyrick, Relict of the late — Meyrick, Esquire; and devolved by Marriage to the present Possession, Philip York, of Erthig, Esquire.

The Building is faced with Buth Stone; and contains feveral commodious, with some spacious and handsome Apartments. The Vale of Aled is narrow, and the direct Views from the Fronts of the House are consequently confined, but those up and down the Vale are woody and picturesque; and the Village of Llansannan, imperfectly seen at the Distance of a Mile, adds to the rural Beauty of the Situation. The River Alled, which glides below, is not of sufficient Consequence to form a Feature, though some late Improvements promise to remedy the Defect.

* The Architect for the Pody of the Building was Mr. Turner of Chefter; but the Wings and interior Parts were finished from Defigns of Mr. Wolfe of London.

Budder Howe is Herkeline the Seat of Su France Sykes Bir!

Commence of the second of the State of the second

BASILDON HOUSE,

In BERKSHIRE.

The Seat of Sir FRANCIS SYKES, Baronet.

(From a Drawing by Mr. ROUVIERE.)

THIS elegant Structure is fituated in a fine Park near the Village of Ballon in the County of Berks; is diffant about 8 Miles from Reading, and 48 from London.

The Estate formerly belonged to Lord Fane, but the House was erected by the present Proprietor, from a Design by Mr. Carr, of York, on the Principle of Wentworth House in Yorkshire.

The Abilities of the Architect are happily displayed in the Completion of this Building; and the Liberality of the Owner has been conspicuous in rendering Basildon House not inserior to many of the most superb Seats in the Kingdom.

The Walls of the grand Salson are painted in Imitation of Baffo Relievo, in a superior Style, by Mons. De Bruin, and the Ceiling is ornamented in Stucco, and pinked in very beautiful. The whole is finished in a masterly Manner.

The Park abounds with Deer, which gives an enlivening Beauty to the furrounding Landscape. The whole of the Grounds are laid out with great Judgment, and have many local Advantages, which are pleasingly adapted to the Elegance of the Mansion. These command fine Views of the beautiful Windings of the River Thames, and extensive Prospects of the adjacent Country.

The Woods of Basildon are a noble Plantation, through which there is a high Road.

The Drawing is in the Possession of Six Francis Syles, Baronet.

Fouthall House in Willshire the Seat of William Beckle of Efg'

FONTHILL HOUSE,

In WILTSHIRE,

The Seat of WILLIAM BECKFORD, Esquire.

(From a Drawing by W. TURNER, A. R. A.)

THIS elegant Fabric was built by the late Right Honourable William Beckford, Lord Mayor of London, who died lamented and revered in his fecond Mayoralty, in 1770, on the Site of a noble Structure destroyed by accidental Fire. It is distant from Hindon 2 Miles, from London 96, and from Salisbury 15 Miles.

The Apartments are noble and fpacious, and are fitted up with uncommon Splendour, Tafte, and Magnificence. They contain Paintings by the first Masters, and a Profusion of valuable Curiosities, collected with great Judgment.

The Park is remarkable for its Wood and Verdure; the Water prefents an Expanse not inferior to that of the Thames; and the Plantations, which extend many Miles over a great Variety of hilly and irregular Country, form one of the grandest Masses of Wood and Forest Scenery in England.

In the Centre of this Alpine Domain there is now creeting a vast Structure, in the Character of a Gothic Abbey, from the Design of Wyatt. It is meant to commemorate the ancient Family of Mervin, who possessed Fontbill for a long Series of Generations, and from whom Mr. Beckford is lineally descended.

The Drawing is in the Possession of William Beckford, Esquire.

Betime There in Birthshire the Scat of Jame Bonneil Esq'

PELLING PLACE,

In BERKSHIRE,

The Seat of JAMES BONNELL, Esquire,

(From a Drawing by - COOKE.)

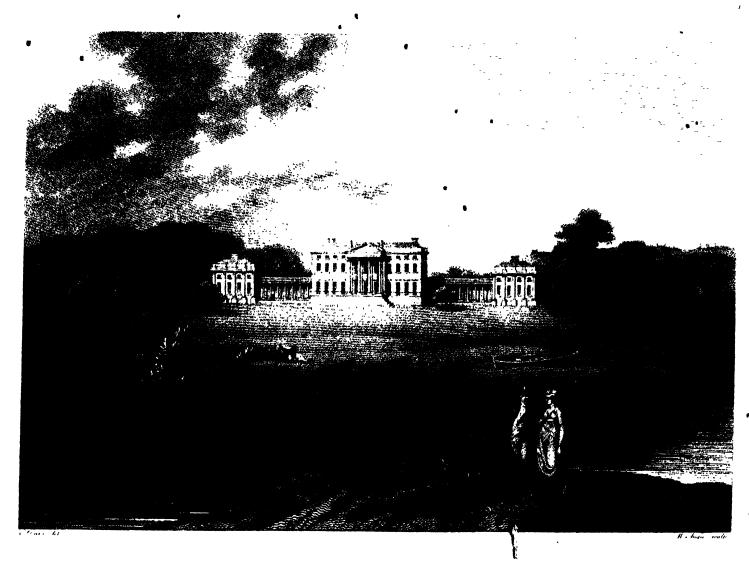

THIS Villa is fituated in the Parish of Old Windsor, and is about 20 Miles from Lendon; it was formerly a Cottage belonging to Francis Pigett, Esq. Nephew to Dean Pelling, from whom the Name is derived. The present Proprietor purchased it of Mr. Pigett about 12 Years since, and has considerably enlarged and much improved it with judicious modern Alterations, which has converted it into a most pleasing, elegant, and desirable Residence.

The Extent of the House is 75 Feet in Length by 38 in Width, with a South-east Prospect. The Ground Floor contains a Hall and Breakfast Parlour, the Furniture of which is painted Velvet. The Walls are decorated with coloured Proof Prints, from the best Artists, tastefully displayed: On the same Floor are likewise the Library, Dining and Drawing Rooms, all ornamented with Paintings and Needle-work, by Mrs. Bonnell. Above Stairs are eight Bed Rooms with Dressing Rooms, decorated with equal Taste and Ingenuity by the same Lady.

The House contains 14 Rooms befides Offices, and commands a bold View of Windsor Castle, and the picturesque Scenery in its Vicinity; and what adds to the Beauty of the surrounding Prospect, is the meandering and enlivening View of the River Thames.

The Pleasure Grounds likewise command the same pleasing Objects, and contain near 20 Acres, which are laid out with Taste and Judgment. The Grounds rise on one Side, on the Summit of which is a Temple, built with Flint, containing a Billiard Room, a Grotto, and a Tea Room, which commands beautiful and extensive Prospects. We must not forget to mention an admirable well-contrived rustic Dairy, which is seen in the View. A curious Hermitage and Aviary are placed in different Parts of the Sarubbers.

The Drawing is in the Possession of James Bennell, Esquire.

Altergham in Shropshire the Sout of I and Berwick

ATTINGHAM,

In SHROPSHIRE,

The Seat of the Right Honourable Lord BERWICK.

(From a Drawing by E. DAYES, Draughtsman to his Royal Highness the Duke of YORK.)

THIS large and magnificent Mansion is a very striking Object from the Turnpike Road, about 4 Miles South of Shrewshury, whence it appears much nearer than it really is, from its vast Extent of Front. It is about 156 Miles from London.

The House contains many noble and spacious Apartments, with a Number of valuable Pictures and Statues, collected by the present Noble Lord, during his Tours in Italy, or purchased in London since this Country became the only Place of Refuge from the Invaders and Plunderers of almost every other Country.

The Improvements of the Park at Attingham are now carrying on under the Direction of Mr. Repton, who has begun by digging a new Channel for the River Terne, to unite it with the Severn, in View of the House; and as the great Principle of Improvement at the Place consists in the Extension of the Park and Lawn to both Sides of the High Road, the Banks of the Severn are to be planted, and connected with the Park, by a Passage under the large Bridge, over which the Turnpike Road passes.

From a Drive near this new Channel of the River Terne, the House appears very singularly framed by the vast Arch of the Bridge, which is a Chord of 100 Feet.

The Drawing was taken in the Year 1798.

٨,

•

 $(v_{ij}, v_{ij}) = (v_{ij}, v_$

LIII.

WANSTED HOUSE,

In ESSEX.

The Seat of Sir JAMES TYLNEY LONG, Bart.

(From a Drawing by W. COOKE.)

THIS magnificent and extensive Structure is situated upon the Western Part of Epping Forest, and is about 6 Miles North East from London; it was begun by Sir Josiah Child, Bart. who purchased the Manor of Wansted, and was sinished by his Grandson, the late Earl Tylney, Viscount Castlemain, on whose Death without Issue, in 1783, it descended to his Nephew, Sir J. Tylney Long, Bart. Father of the present Possessor. This, which is one of the noblest Houses in England, if not in Europe, is of Portland Stone, 260 Feet in Length and 70 in Depth; was built under Colin Campbell, the celebrated Architect (Author of the Vetruvius Britannicus) who directed its noble Front, thought to be as fine a Piece of Architecture as any in Italy. It consists of a rustic Basement, and the State Story, with an Attic in the Centre. It is adorned by a noble Portico of six Corinthian Columns. In the Tympanum of this Portico, which is ascended by a double Flight of Steps, are the Family Arms, and over the Door which leads into the great Hall, is a Medallion of the Architect.

The Apartments are numerous and magnificent, containing a very valuable and felect Collection of Paintings by the first Artists, purchased by the late Earl during his Residence in Italy, a Description of which would far exceed the Limits of this Work; besides the Paintings, the Statues attract great Attention, and his Lordship's refined Taste enabled him to select the most eminent and valuable, which are dispersed through the Apartments of the House, particularly in the great Hall, which is 53 Feet by 45, and the Saloon 30 Feet square. Under the great Hall is a noble Arcade, from whence you enter the Dining Parlour, Breakfast Room, &c.

In the Avenue leading from the grand Front of the House to Laytonftone is a circular Piece of Water, which seems equal to the Length of the House. On each side, as we approach the House, is a Marble Statue; that on the Lest Hercules, the other Omphale: and hence, to compensate, as it were, for the Desect of Wings (which were included in the original Design) are Obelisks and Vases extended alternately to the House. The Garden Front has no Portico, but a Pediment enriched with a Bas Relief, and supported by six three-quarter Columns. From this Front is an easy Descent through a fine Vista to the River Roding, which is formed into Canals; and beyond it, the Walks and Wildernesses rise up a Hill, as they sloped down before.—Highland House, an elegant Seat built of Stone, forms a beautiful Termination to the Vista. In the Gardens is a beautiful Grotto.

Mr. Arthur Young, in his Six Weeks Tour, observes that "Wansted upon the whole is one of the noblest Houses in England. The Magnificence of having four State Bed-Chambers, with complete Apartments to them, and the Ball-Room, are superior to any Thing of the Kind in Houghton, Holkam, Blenheim, and Wilton; but each of these are superior to this in other Particulars; and to form a complete Palace, something must be taken from all. In Respect of Elegance of Architecture, "Wansted is second to Holkam. What a Building would it be, were the Wings added, according to the first Design!"

^{*} Among others, Wentworth House, in Yorkshire, is nearly a Copy of Wansted.

Blickling in Bookst the Vant of The World will be Matter to A character to and

B L I C K L I N G

The Seat of the Honourable WILLIAM ASHETON HARBORD.

(From a Drawing by W. WATTS.)

BLICKLING, formerly the Seat of the Boleyns, of which Family was Sir Thomas Boleyn, Knight of the Bath and Earl of Wiltshire: Anne Boleyn, his Daughter, Queen of Henry the Eighth, and Mother of Queen Elizabeth, was born here.

The House is unfortunately situated close upon one End of the Water, but is a large and noble Structure. The Architecture Gothic, a little blended with the Grecian. The West Front was built by the late Earl of Buckinghamshire, in 1769. The Hall contains a double Staircase, with a Gallery of Communication at the Top. In two Niches are the Figures of Queen Anne Boleyn' and her Daughter Queen Elizabeth. The Apartments in general are spacious. The Library is extensive and contains a large Collection of Books, &c.

The Park and Gardens, containing about 1000 Acres, furround the House on three Sides. The Park is nearly divided by a Timber Wood of about 180 Acres: on one Side is a Two-Mile Race Course: the lower Part is ornamented with large old Timbers; the upper Part is diversified by various Plantations and Buildings, one of which is a Tower, in the Gathic Taste, resembling a Church-Steeple. The Ground pleasingly irregular, the Soil dry, and the Views cheerful and extensive.

The Pleasure Garden, rather less than a Mile in Circumserence, surrounded on three Sides by Terraces, commands pleasing though confined Landscapes, of which the Market Town of Aylsbam makes a principal Feature.

The Greenhouse is spacious and elegant, containing Orange Trees and other Exotics particularly thriving.

The Lake is of a Crescent Shape, the Bow of which extends a Mile, and the String Half a one, its extreme Width being about 400 Yards, and is one of the finest in the Kingdom, the Colour of the Water is very bright; but what renders it uncommonly beautiful, is the noble accompaniment of Wood.

The Hills rife from the Edge in a diversified Manner; in some Places they are steep and bold, in others they hang in waving Lawns, and are so crowned and spread with Wood, that the whole Scene is enriched with a dark Shade, finely contrasting the Brightness of the Water. Some Woods of majestic Oaks and Beech dip into the Water, while others gently retire from it and only shade the distant Hills. Sometimes they open in large Breaks, and let in the View of others darker than themselves, or rise so boldly from the Water's Edge as to exclude every other View. About the Centre of the Water, on the Right of it, is a projecting Hill, thickly covered with Beech; their Stems are free from Leaves, but their Heads unite and form so deep a Gloom, that not a Ray of the Sun can find Admittance, while it illuminates the Water, on which you look both Ways. This partial View of the Lake (for the Branches of the Beech hang over the Water, and form an Horizon for it) is strikingly beautiful.

Vide NORFOLK TOUR.

Meeton Place in surry, the Seat of Admird Ford Nelson

MERTON PLACE,

In SU'RRY,

The Seat of Vice-Admiral Lord Viscount NEL'SON, K.B. Duke of BRONTE, &c. &c. &c.

(From a Drawing by EDWARD HAWKE LOCKER, Efq.)

THIS House, at present inhabited by its illustrious Possesson, is a modern brick Edifice, erected by Sir Richard Hotham, from whom it came into the Possesson of Mr. Graves, and was purchased of him by his Lordship. It stands contiguous to the great Guilford Road, about 8 Miles from London, and within Half a Mile of the Village of Merton, once remarkable for its ancient Abbey, which was founded in 1135 by Gilbert Norman, Sherisf of Surry, to whom King Henry I. gave the Manor of Merton. In 1236 a Parliament was held there. The Remains of the Abbey are now occupied, with other Buildings, by the Manusactories of a Calico-printer; but are too inconsiderable to attract Notice from their picturesque Appearance. The Chapel, however, was entire within little more than Half a Century.

The House is moated round by a small Piece of Water, over which is erected a very elegant little Bridge of one Arch, in the Italian Taste, which conducts the Carriage Road up to the House. The Apartments are distributed with much Taste and Convenience, and are ornamented with Pictures and other Memorials of his Lordship's naval Achievements.

The Drawing from which this Plate was engraved is in the Possession of Lord Viscount Nelson, an was made in 1801.

See Some of As in bent the Sout of Burelo Soun Effet

SUNDRIDGE PARK

In KENT,

The Seat of CLAUDE SCOTT, Eq.

(From a Drawing by HUMPHREY REPTON, Efq.)

THE Situation and Form of this House are of so peculiar a Nature, that it may not be improper to describe the Circumstances that guided the leading Principles of its Improvement.

The general Character of the Place is a fine Valley from East to West; with some lesser Valles gently falling into it. But the north Side was so much fleeper than the south Side, that it appeared almost impracticable to place a House with its proper Aspect towards the South, till Mr. Repton, who was consulted in the Improvements, suggested the Idea of cutting down so much of a small Hill, as to form an ample Area on which to place the Mouse: this has been executed in a masterly Manner, and has now so much the Appearance of being the natural Shape, that it is hardly possible to conceive that the Ground on the Place where the House now stands was at one Tire almost as high as the Roof of the House.

Another Difficulty arose from the Situation, because it was evident, that, by placing the House parallel to the Valley, the Views would not be so good as if Advantage could be taken of the oblique Views along the Valley; and for this Purpose the present Form of the House was adopted, that the principal Rooms might be turned towards the most interesting Points of View: to accomplish this without presenting an obtuse Argin in the Centre of the Building, this elegant Design was proposed, consisting of a circular Portico of six Columns, with a Dome in the Centre, and a Portico with sour Columns at each End, and a Pediment. The whole is of the Corinthian Order, and in the most persect Proportions.

As the Form of this House was fixed and claused on the Ground, at the Time when Mr. Repton and Mr. Nash mustally affished each other, it would be an Act of Injustice to either to attribute the sole Merit of this fingular Design to either separately: but the interior sitting up of the House has been since done under the Direction of Mr. Samuel Wants, who also built the Stables.

In this View the general Situation of the House, the Stables, and the Conservatory, are represented; but it is impossible to describe the various Circumstances of Interest and Beauty with which the Walks in the Woods abound. The natural Shape of the Ground would seem to suggest the Possibility of making a River, or Piece of Water, along the Course of the Valley; but the porous Nature of the Soil, and precarious Supplies, will not justify the Attempt farther than as a Drinking Ford for Cattle; which serves to enlive the Scenery, without aiming at an Expanse of Water so little to be expected, because not congenial to the dry but beautiful Vallies of Kent.

It is about 2 Miles from Riverhous, and 19 from London.

thoughpute in the I do not I bearing I west the country Police Research & REP

KINGSGATE,
In the ISLE of THANET, KENT,

The Scat of JOHN ROBERTS,

(From a Drawing by — TOMKINS.)

ABOUT 2 Miles to the north of the Village of St. Peters, and 70 Miles from London, in a Valley fronting the Sea, is Kingsgate, the remarkable Seat of the late Lord Holland, built after the Plan of Tully's Formian Villa, on the Coast of Baiæ.

It confifts of a noble Doric Portico, but much too large for the adjoining Wings, which are of Flint squared, and laid in the most regular Manner. The House, though very low, has some good Apartments, particularly on the sirst Floor; but the Chambers and Staircase are peculiarly mean for such a House: the Saloon, which forms one of the Wings of the back Front, is a magnificent Room; but the difgusting Passage to it from the House soils the Effect of it entirely; it may well be compared to the winding low Passages through which you are obliged to oreep, to gain Admittance to the inmost Recesses of an Egyptian Pyramid; for in this a full-fized Man cannot walk upright; but when once entered, this beautiful Apartment well compensates for the Difficulty of getting to it. The Ceiling was painted by Mr. Hakewell, and contains the History of Neptune, to whom the Saloon is dedicated: it is supported by some beautiful Columns and Pilasters of Scagliola to imitate Porphyry, by Mesirs. Bartoli and Richter: these are far exceeded by the , curious Furniture with which this Room is enriched, and not this Room alone, but every Part of this now neglected House. Over the Gateway which separates the Wings from the Body of the House, are two high Basso-relievos of white Marble, unknown but by Conjecture.

Opposite the Front of the House is an Arch turned over the Gateway, that is cut through the Clift to the Sea, in which are fixed the Remains of a Portcullis. The Top is embattled, which Parapet is continued on each Side, and forms Embrasures for twenty-four Pieces of small Cannon. The The Grounds are ornamented with many fingular Buildings, most of them bearing Inscriptions. The Convent represents the Manner of an ancient Monastery, consisting of the Remains of a Chapel, five Cells of which afford a comfortable Asylum for five poor Families, before which is a Colonnade or Cloister, and at the east End is a grand Gateway and Porter's Lodge, containing some good Apartments. The Castle, by far the largest of all the Outworks, is on the Plan of those erected by Edward the First; it was intended originally for Stables, Coach-houses, &c. and did serve for that Purpose, till the north-west Side was converted into a Dwesling, by and for John Roberts, Esquire, the present Proprietor of the Estate. Behind the House is a small Garden; at the upper End near the Convent is a small Column of Kilkenny Marble, creeked to the Mersory of Margaret of Kildare, Countess of Hilsborough. About Half a Mile to the North-east is the North Foreland Light House, erected in 1683.

€,

[Vide "Tour through the Isle of Thanet," published by Mr. J. Nichols in 1793.

ADDESCOMBE PLACE,

In SURRY,

The Seat of the Right Honourable the Earl of LIVERPOOL.

(From a Drawing by W. ANGUS.)

THIS ancient brick-built House is situated within about a Mile to the Lest of Croyden; has the Appearance of being erected about the latter End of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, but known to be of a much later Date, and is about 11 Miles from London. It contains noble Apartments, surnished suitably to its Possessor, with extensive Out-offices. It is the Property of Capt. Charles Clarke, and was let to the late Earl of Liverpool for his Life. His Lordship has not only improved the House, but greatly added to the Grounds and Plantations.

On the East Front of the House (and from whence the present View is taken) is this Inscription in Roman Capitals: "Non facian Vitio Culpave minorem"—" I will not reduce the Estate by any Folly or Vice of mine."

The public View is much confined, as it can only be feen in a Kind of Visto, having Rows of Trees nearly regular, which form a Lawn with Paddocks before the House.

Whifley Court in Wordscharker the Seat of Lord Foley

many to the second section of the second section of

WHITLEY COURT,

In WORCESTERSHIRE,

The Seat of the Right Honourable Lord Viscount FOLEY.

(From a Drawing by EDWARD DAYES.)

THIS Seat, with its Offices, covers a large Extent of Groand, and commands an open and extensive Prospect. It is near the Hundred Inn, and about 20 Miles from Worcester, and 126 from London. It slands in the Parish of (what is commonly called) Great Wiley, or Whitley, but is not of modern Architecture. It contains some handsome Apartments, the Fittings up of which are highly ornamental. The Gardens are laid out in a corresponding Manner, in which there is a noble Canal of large Dimensions, with Greenhouse, &c. suitable to the Rank of the Possessor. There is a Communication, by a convenient Closet, from the House to the Church (which is seen in the View on the right Hand), which was built by the first Lord Foley, and Mary his Widow, and is worthy the Opulence and Taste of the Family; on the south Side of the Altar there is a sumptuous marble Monument of the Founder of this Church (who died Jan. 22, 1732) and his Family.

The whole Building is very completely finished; the Windows were painted by Price in the Year 1719, and the Ceiling by Verrio; they were originally designed for the Chapel of Canons (in Middlesex), but when Misfortunes befell the magnificent Duke of Chandos, they were purchased by the second Lord Foley, and sit this Church as well as if they were originally designed for it.

West 11-11 in Surve the Seat of D. H. Ricker Elq!

WEST HILL,

· In SURRY,

The Seat of D. H. RUCKER, Esquire.

(From a Drawing by Mr. HUMPHRY REPTON.)

TIIIS Villa is about 5 Miles from London, and is delightfully fituated on an Eminence commanding the whole of the rich Vale which extends from London to Richmond; Part of the Landscape is enlivened by a View of the Thames, and the whole is bounded by the Hills of Surry and Kent.

The Gardens, Hot-houses, Pleasure rounds, and numerous Accompaniments of the Villa, furnish a magnificent Specimen of that Degree of Eleganic Confort enjoyed by English Merchants, when they occasionally retreat from the industrious Labours of the Compting-house to share their well-earned Wealth with their Friends, in the Hospitality of their Country Seats.

The Grounds were originally planned by Brown, and have received some Improvement from Repton.

The House is large and richly furnished; but the accurate, or scientific Observer, will perceive on the Outside of the Villa, such Departures from the established Rules or Proportions of Architecture, as must naturally be expected where the Builder or Surveyor is consulted instead of the regular Architect.

The Editor did not think himself justified in representing the Architecture of the House more correct than it is in reality; but by the common Observer, the Error in the Entablature, or in the Intercolumniation, will hardly be detected.

Among the Appendages to this Place may be mentioned the Farm, the Dairy, the Baths, and the Boat-house, which have been much and deservedly admired.

		1
		1 1
		,

SION. HOU*SE,

In MIDDLESEX,

The Seat of his Grace the DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND,

(From a Drawing by WILLIAM ANGUS.)

THIS ancient Seat is situated in the Parish of Isleworth, in the County of Middlesex, about 8 Miles from London; and derives its name from the celebrated Monastery of the Holy Mount Sion, which once occupied the same site. Sion was one of the first of the largest Monasteries which were suppressed.

In 1604, Sion House was granted to Henry Piercey, winth Earl of Northumberland, in consideration of his eminent services to the Crown, and his Son Algernon employed Inigo Jones to new face the Inner Court, and to finish the Great Hall in the manner in which it now appears.

Charles, Duke of Somerset, having married about the year 1682 the only daughter of Joceline, Earl of Northumberland, this Mansion became his property, and he lent it to the Princess Anne, who resided here during the misunderstanding between her and Queen Mary. Upon the Duke's death in 1748, his Son Algernon gave Sion House to Sir Hugh and Lady Smithson, his Son-in-law and Daughter, afterwards Duke and Duchess of Northumberland, who made the greater part of the late fine improvements.

The House is a majestic edifice of white stone: the roof is flat, and embattled, and at each of the four outward angles is a square embattled turret. The entrance from the high road is through a magnificent gateway, adorned on each side with an open colonnade. The ascent to the House is by a noble flight of steps, which leads into the Great Hall.

CHILLINGHAM CASTLE,

The Seat of the Right Honourable the EARL of TANKERVILLE.

(From a Drawing by Mr. ARNOLD).

THIS ahcient Sent descended to the present Noble possessor from his Ahcestors, the Greys, Barons of Wark, and Earls of Tankerville.

It was formerly a Hunting-seat belonging to the Family, their strong holds being Heton and Wark Castle, in the same County.

In the Reign of Edward III. Thomas Grey de Heton, had licence from the King. "Kernellare mansum suum de * Chevelingham ac castrum sive fortalitium inde facere." The Castle has undergone various alterations since that period. Part of the Southern Front being built in the Reign of Henry VI., and the Northern Front, as well as the Interior of the Quadrangle, being repaired and ornamented by Inigo Jones.

The Castle stands on a rising ground in the middle of a grove of old sycamores and limes. Its form is quadrangular, with a Court in the centre, and square Towers at each angle.

The Apartments are neither very large or numerous, as the Castle seems to have been constructed more for security than show. There is, however, a handsome Hall, 60 feet in length, and the Apartments contain a Collection of ancient Portraits.

Chillingham Castle is four Miles from Wooler, and five from Belford, lying between the two Northern Roads from Newcastle to Edinburgh, and is distant 319 Miles from London.

bus at any in historical with to the Great of the Road of Winellandsea.

the second of th

BURLEIGH ON THE HILL,

In RUTLANDSHIRE,

The Seat of the Right Honourable the EARL of WINCHELSEA,

(From a Drawing by Mr. HUMPHRY REPTON.)

THIS noble House, called Burley on the Hill, or Burleigh, is situated near Market Overton, and is about 140 Miles from London; the ancient building formerly belonged to Spenser the Warlike, Bishop of Norwich, in the Reign of Bishard II. and was purchased by George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham, who here entertained James I. with Ben Jonson's "Mask of the Gypsies." It was burnt by the Parliament in the Civil Wars, except the noble Stables. Daniel, Earl of Nottingham, who purchased the estate, rebuilt the House as it now appears; which has a Park, enclosed by a wall of five or six Miles round. It belongs to the present Earl of Winchelsea, and the Court is supposed the largest in the Kingdom. Here is some very fine Tapestry, and the Saloon is ornamented with the History of Julius Cæsar. Villiers bought Burley of the Heirs of Harrington, and the Earl of Winchelsea is Grandson to the Earl of Nottingham, who purchased it of Villiers.